Foreword

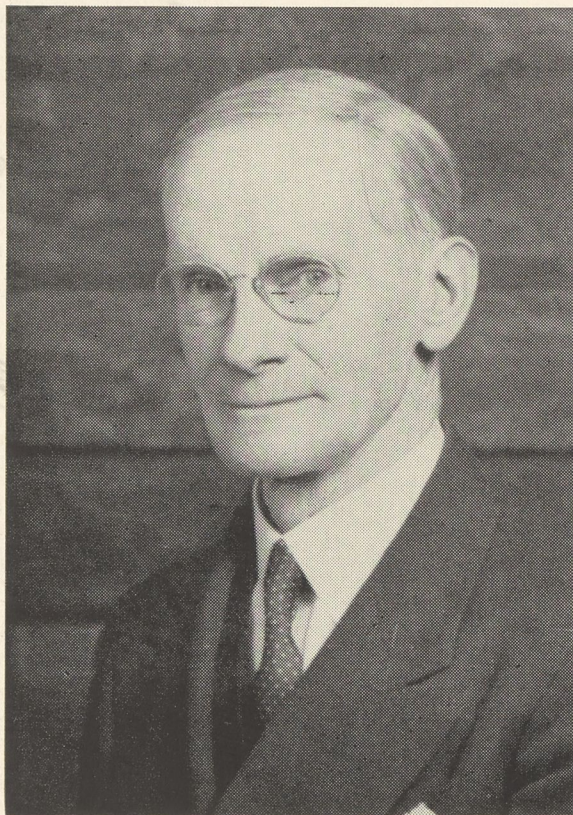

To paraphrase Rostand

A yearbook! When all is said, what is a yearbook? A pledge of fellowship among classmates, a record of face and fact; a pictured dot upon the letter "I" in life, ideals, and learning; a year from out a lifetime, captured in black and white; a fashion of reliving college days and saying in few words, these things we will remember . . .

Dedication

Dr. Charles Calvert Ellis, President of Juniata College from 1930 to 1943, has left a name never to be forgotten on our campus and elsewhere. To list his achievements as teacher, minister, and administrator, cannot do justice to the significance of his life. Nevertheless, his contributions to the growth and development of Juniata College, his loyal work in the Church of the Brethren, and his sincere interest in all those with whom he came in contact, indicate the depth of his great personality. A Christian in the highest sense of the word, every task Dr. Ellis undertook was one of dedication to God.

With the deepest regard and in loving tribute, this Alfarata is dedicated to his memory.

Juniata College in Retrospect

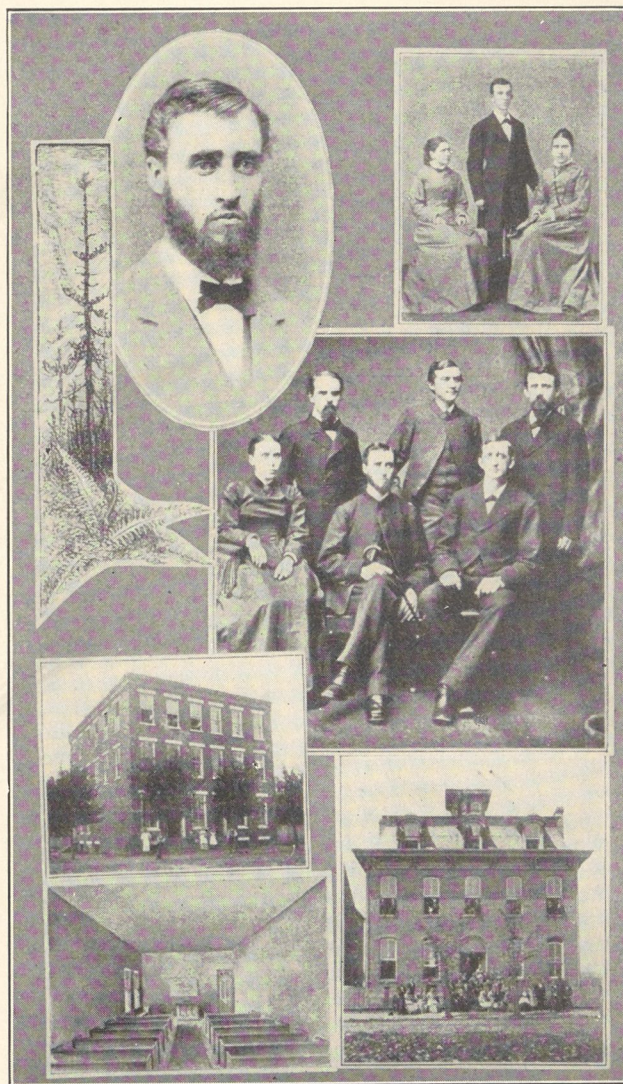

Someone described a college as being like a tree, which, breaking from its seed, survives pruning, near-killing frosts, and tree-uprooting winds to develop into that which men stand back to evaluate and admire, while considering possibilities for future development.

Now, in 1951, those who love Juniata stand back to evaluate and admire its 75 growth rings.

First assignments and lectures were given by Professor J. M. Zuck to three students sitting in a second-story classroom of the newly-opened Huntingdon Normal School. Class notes were dated April 17, 1876.

As the enrollment increased during the following terms, it became necessary for students to transfer their books and pens to the more spacious Burchinell Building, and later (April, 1879) to the newly-erected Founders Hall, which was built in West Huntingdon after the temporary closing of the school during a smallpox epidemic. Students, full of school spirit, planted red maples and other trees around the building, and those "who knew the use of tools quit the class-room some weeks before the moving day and turned carpenters to help complete the work . . ."

Throughout the first period of the college's development the Normal English course was dominant. This curriculum, established for the purpose of preparing teachers, was the only course offered during the first terms, but it continued to hold top place in the registration even after the establishment of a scientific course and the affiliation of the Juniata Business College with the Normal School in 1891-92. Students completing this curriculum received a Bachelor of English degree, and those who remained for three years of further study, a Master of English degree. Physically, the fledgling college grew rapidly during this period. Ladies Hall (now Brumbaugh Hall), providing room for a "parlor", and Oneida Hall, providing space for a dining room to relieve crowded conditions, were annexed to the original building. The library was moved from the room now used as the President's outer office to Students Hall, and the physical education and athletic programs received greater emphasis after the acquisition of the athletic field and the building of the gymnasium.

The campus scene at the turn of the century

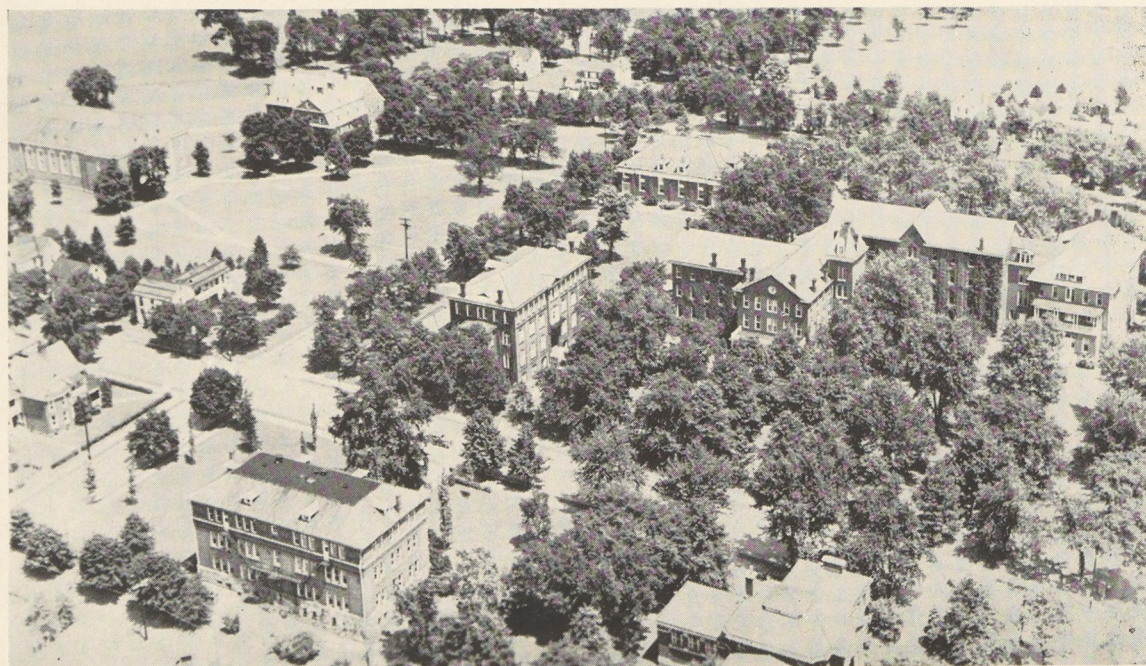

Already named four times—Huntingdon Normal School, Brethren's Normal School and Collegiate Institute, Brethren's Normal College, The Normal College—in 1894 the institution was given its present Iroquois Indian name "Juniata". Two years later the charter was amended, and during the transitional period which followed this change, the school, through the influence of its President Martin G. Brumbaugh, achieved recognition as a College of arts and sciences. The old normal curriculum was modified and strengthened, a college preparatory course was added and the college course developed. Gradually, the normal course lost its dominant position and in 1922 was discontinued. As the public high school gained prestige, the prep. school program also was removed from the college curriculum. Several schools, such as the business school, were formed within the College and for a time it was possible to graduate after one year of studying. However, these schools later became departments and graduation occurred only after four years of study. During this period the Carnegie Library and the Science building were added to the growing campus.

In the following period of development, the College of arts and sciences period, the curriculum was molded to its present shape. The integration and follow-up courses were introduced and the freshman English course replaced by a system of conferences with faculty advisors. In accordance with the institution's emphasis on religion, ethics and Biblical History were made subjects required for graduation. The College's facilities expanded with the erection of the Cloister and Oller Hall.

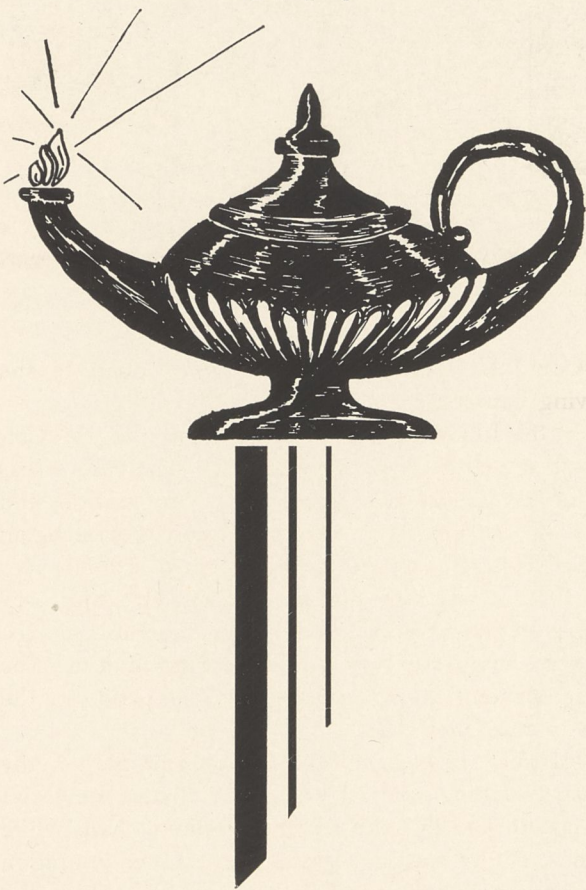

Physical development in the present period, the "forward looking" period, has included the memorial gymnasium and an addition to the dining hall; while the curriculum has been expanded, in co-operation with Carnegie Institute of Technology, to include the "3-2 Plan" for engineering students.

So now, in 1951, those who love Juniata stand back to consider the possibilities for future development.

College*

DR. CALVERT N. ELLIS

In the 1926 ALFARATA, President Martin Grove Brumbaugh writes of the future of Juniata—"We want, in the years to come, a fuller development and enrichment of all those finer things of life that spring into being in a Christian college, that fiber the soul, that enrich the spirit, that make one kin to heaven, and which may be summed up in that precious phrase—Juniata Spirit."

On this Seventy-fifth Anniversary of Juniata's founding, there are clouds on the immediate horizon, but the sun which shines from Terrace to Tussey will see a greater and finer Juniata. Many of the things of which President Brumbaugh dreamed have come to reality. We are the inheritors of the College which he and countless others sacrificed to build. Juniata College has received national accreditation and international recognition. The small college has become a bit larger, but the ideal of a small Christian college remains the same.

Some of the facilities of which President Brumbaugh dreamed remain yet to be provided, but the purposes are clear, the alumni loyal, the faculty devoted, and the students catch the Juniata Spirit.

A basic general education in an environment where God is honored, where individual personality is respected, and the development of the student's capacities is the primary concern—this is the program of Juniata College.

It was only yesterday that we welcomed you to Juniata. Now four years later we repeat a formula over you, try to drub a few last counsels into your thinking, and set you loose on the world.

The cynics will say that you are still the same old people, with perhaps a dash of polished manners here and a dab of professional training there. But otherwise not much has happened.

But those of us who live and work with young people year in and year out know otherwise. What has happened goes beyond social acceptibility and vocational competence. Hidden potentialities have been discovered. Imagination, sensibility, and intellectual powers have been developed. Above all else, a new perspective on life has been found. The educated man is really the one who can not only perform useful tasks, but who can understand and appraise the value of all that he does and thinks. He knows that there is an order of goods, a right order of values, and he is not going to be taken in by specious and subtle appeals to regard the lesser as the greater.

No, you are not the same people you were a few yesterdays ago. You may indeed be the transformed people whom the world most needs now. You may have been making the most important contribution to mankind that it is possible to make. You will learn much from the world, but the world has much to learn from you.

Dean of Students

We are expecting this Alfarata to be interesting. It will tell the story of Juniata College in its 75th year. It will preserve the pictures and reflect the activities of the people who compose the College community in this diamond anniversary year.

But, real excitement from the Alfarata will come in the years ahead. No thrill quite compares to that of looking through one's college yearbook and noting the achievements of one's friends. No experience is more satisfying than that of locating the picture of a friend whose name has become associated with success and distinction.

However, this presents a challenge. Each person whose name and picture is printed in this book owes it to himself and the others to strive toward those high callings which will bring distinction and admiration to himself and the group.

May I urge you to aim high. Aim high in your goals, remain high in your character, and grow high in your loyalty to your friends and your college.

J. Melvin Rhodes

Dean of Women

In the vernacular of the artist, "the thumb-nail sketch" is often used to signify a miniature plan blocked out to guide in the development of the final product. I wonder if we can not think of this past year in much the same way. As such, have you stopped to look at your life thus far at Juniata, to evaluate it as the right pattern for your future life work? Has your time been unified by dominance of spiritual values, habits of good conscientious work with a small amount of vigorous, helpful recreation to give a spot of contrast? Have you checked your goals to see if you have not left out some important detail which will vitiate your acceptance into the state of society which a professional person enters? Have you been conscious of all the beauty around you—the first buds, the cloud formations overhead, the haze on the horizon? Do you occasionally go off by yourself to ponder over a problem, a new philosophy, or to develop a deepened insight?

I challenge you to evaluate yourselves for next year so that your thumb-nail sketch will more nearly represent a designed plan for your future.

Faculty

The Classical and Modern Language Departments, represented by Dr. Dorothy J. Fulmer, Dr. George B. Clemens, Miss Mildred A. Tausch, Prof. Jack E. Oller, and Prof. Margaret F. McCrimmon, are an important part of Juniata's academic program. Whether studying Latin, Greek, Hebrew, French, Spanish, or German, the student is assured of capable guidance in mastering the language.

Several departments in the Second Division are here represented. Prof. Alfred Goetschius, front left, instructs in Psychology; Miss Miriam Schlegel teaches Elementary Education, while Mr. William Conner, is an Instructor in Sociology. Biblical studies are the subjects of Prof. G. Wayne Glick; Dr. Edgar Kiracofe is Prof. of Education; and Dr. Tobias Henry, extreme right, is Prof. of Sociology.

Drs. Kenneth W. Crosby and Harry H. Nye, left front and back respectively, keep history alive for the Juniata students, while the fields of Economics and Business are under the capable direction of Dr. S. Lees Booth, Mr. I. Newton Taylor, center; and Prof. Herbert A. Miller, extreme right.

Home Economics, one of the most popular fields for the co-ed, has gained a fine reputation under the leadership of Prof. Gertrude L. Butler, Prof. Frances J. Mathias, Miss Helen L. Fisher, and Prof. Jane Miller Crosby.

The fields of Biology, Mathematics, and Physics are represented here at Juniata by a capable and highly accredited staff, which includes, respectively; Dr. Homer Will, front left; Mr. Alexander Bartha; Prof. J. Clyde Stayer, center; Mr. Phillip Bedient; and Prof. Paul R. Yoder, extreme right.

Stimulating our literary and dramatic interests is the English Department, which includes Dr. Harold Binkley, Miss Amelia Murdoch, Mrs. Charles L. Rowland, Miss Lois Esaley, and Prof. S. Earl Dubbel.

Keeping in tune is the Music Department, composed of Mrs. Richard Linton, piano; Prof. Jack Brammer, band and orchestra; Miss Marion Thomas, piano; Prof. Donald Johnson, organ and Chapel Choir; and Prof. Charles L. Rowland, voice and A Cappella Choir.

Students are encouraged to maintain an active program of physical training under the direction of the Department of Physical Education, which includes Miss Jane McCormick, Dr. T. Arnold Greene, Mr. William R. Smaltz, Mr. William Germann, and Prof. P. M. Snider.

Juniata students were greatly aided in library research work by the friendly library staff; Miss Glenora Edwards, Assistant to the Librarian, Miss Lillian Evans, Librarian, and Mrs. Sarah Hettinger, Assistant Librarian.

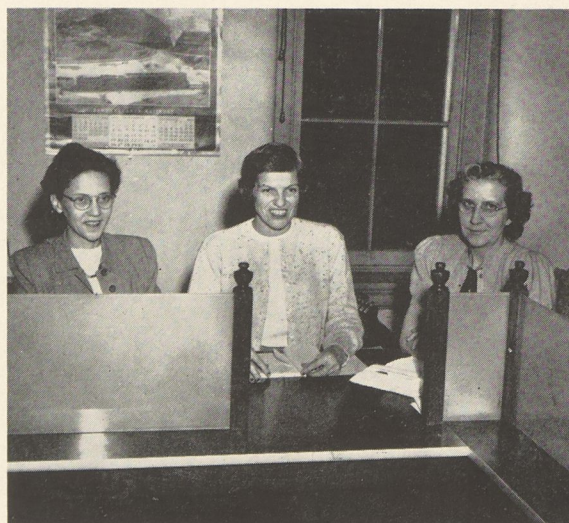

In the Registrar's Office we find A. William Engel, Jr., Registrar, Mrs. Gerald F. Hartzel, Miss Marjorie Johnston, Assistant to the Registrar, and Paul F. Friend, Business Manager, all a necessary part of the Administration.

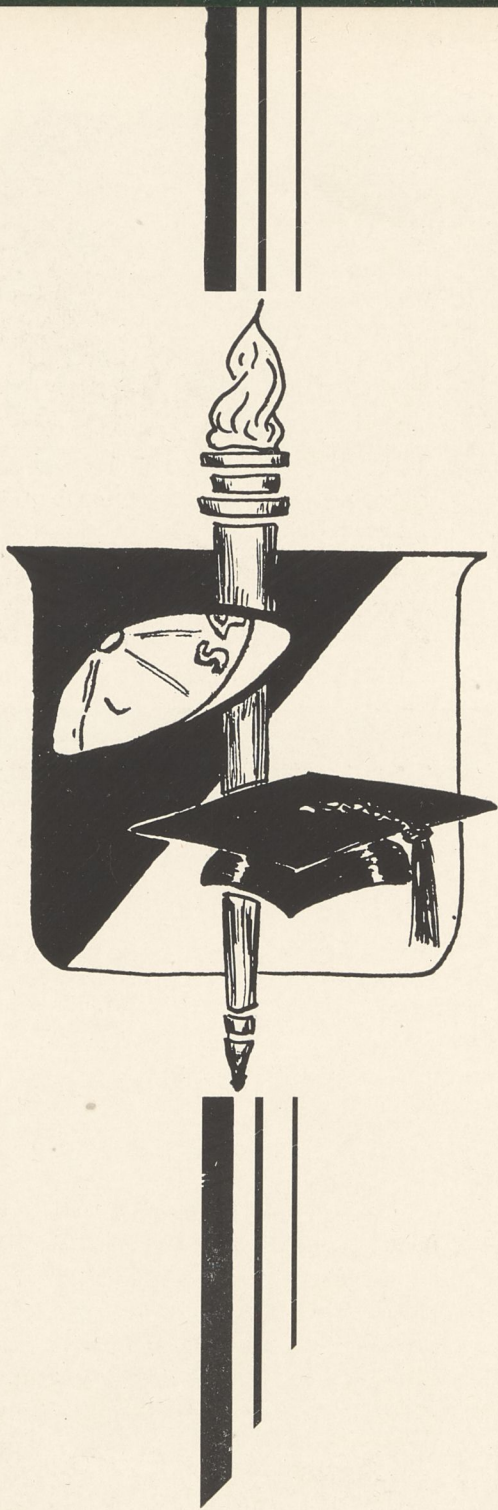

In the Public Relations Office Mr. Harold B. Brumbaugh, Assistant to the President, and his capable secretaries, Miss Yvonne Beaver and Miss Audrey Brown, were responsible for alumni and public relations throughout this Seventy-Fifth Year.

Mrs. Robert Schreffler, Mrs. Walter Bush, Joseph Beyer, Mrs. Barbara J. Weaver, and Mrs. Fred Keene help to keep the wheels turning in the offices of the Deans. George Montgomery, not pictured, assumed Beyer's position as Assistant Director of Admissions upon Joe's entering the Army.

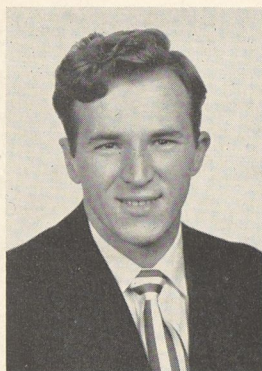

Miss Hilda Nathan, Assistant to the Treasurer, and Mrs. J. Melvin Rhodes, Assistant Treasurer, efficiently kept the records in the Treasurer's Office, while the ability of Mrs. Anna G. Smith, Executive Secretary, helped affairs to run smoothly in the President's Office.

The Senior Class

Four short years ago, a new group of hopefuls joined the Juniata family. Since their appearance on the College scene, they have developed individually into men and women of character and knowledge, and collectively into a proud body with a long list of achievements. In the course of those four years, they have witnessed many events and changes on the Juniata campus. They recall that the Senate Constitution was revamped in the freshman year, the same year which saw "Americanza" and the decline of the veterans' influence on campus life. As Sophomores they were enthusiastic over the prospects of a Student Union building, later regretful as they noted the retirement of one of JC's intellectual Titans. The Junior year saw the completion of the new dining hall, the blazing of gridiron stars, the organization of the JCA, the acquisition of Swigart Hall, and the passing of one of the great servants of the Brethren Church and of the College.

In 1950 they returned as Seniors, with serious thoughts of comprehensives, graduation, and the future, and with a greater appreciation for our Alma Mater in this 75th Year. More physical changes were observed in the gym under construction and in the new equipment in various laboratories. Student government made considerable progress along the line of dining hall conduct, election procedure, the planning of general activities, and in other projects, while various departments of the faculty were enlarged.

It is with sadness and many memories that the Class departs. Not wholly a group of co-curricular participants, it contained many students, who, by innate ability and by constant study and application, ascended to places of scholastic honor, and who will better the world into which they step. Indeed, the world will feel, as Juniata has felt, the ability and worth of the Class of 1951.

An organization whose purpose it is to advance the standards of the College and to honor by election to membership students of high scholastic attainment, moral integrity, and broad cultural interests, the Honor Society this year was composed of fifteen superior students. Members of the society were chosen by a committee composed of the President of the College, several faculty members, and the members of the society remaining on campus. Though the organization undertakes no specific program, it does strive by individual action to stimulate interest in the cultural opportunities which the College affords and in intelligent citizenship.

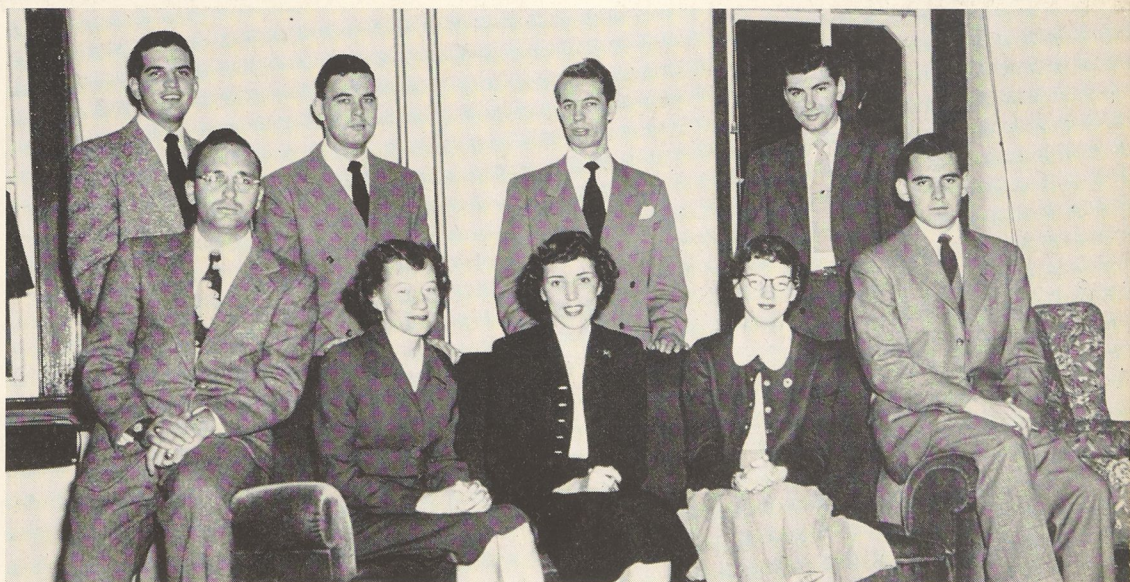

Honor Society

"Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" includes nine Juniata seniors in the 1951 edition. These students, nominated by a faculty and administration committee, were selected on the basis of their scholarship, leadership and co-operation in educational and extracurricular activities, general citizenship, and promise of future usefulness.

This institution offers these nationally acknowledged leaders a certificate of recognition, publication of their pictures and personal records in the yearbook, and use of a student placement service.

Junior Class

To say that "that class has everything" would not be an overstatement when referring to the versatile group of Juniors. Whether on the athletic field, on the stage, or in the club room there were always representatives of the class of '52 to throng the production line.

In sports we saw a varied display of muscular activity. On yonder football field, Campbell, Smith and Thomasberger were pushing toward another goal. The baseball fans were cheering for Dickey, and there was Allen putting another golf point. Basketball scores were rising, as Greene and Park were at it again. All these Junior heroes were applauded by the lively cheerleaders and the Captain, Fred Stauffer.

Leading the pulchritude parade in the Homecoming festivities was Lois Miller, who was our "Queen for a Day," while three other Junior lassies contributed to the glory of the day.

Two of our members were given opportunities to display their leadership abilities in the College Senate, while three others served as JCA commissioners.

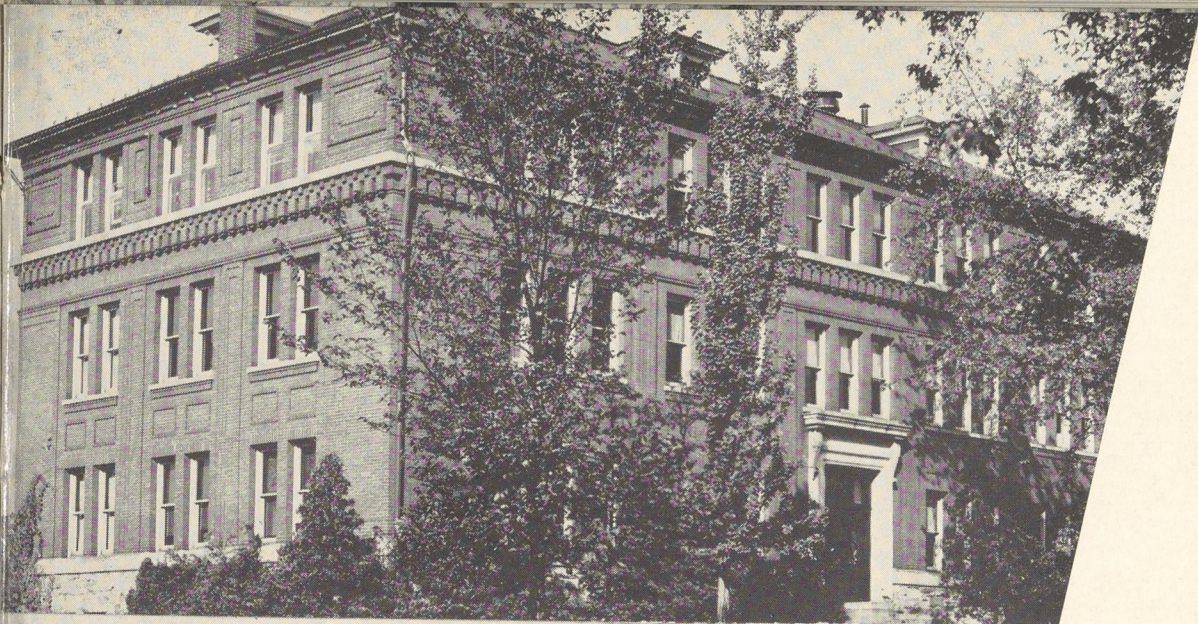

Publications provided another outlet for Junior activity, with many of the group helping to publish the Juniatian, the Scout and the Alfarata. Four of the top posts in the former publication were held by members of this class of '52.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

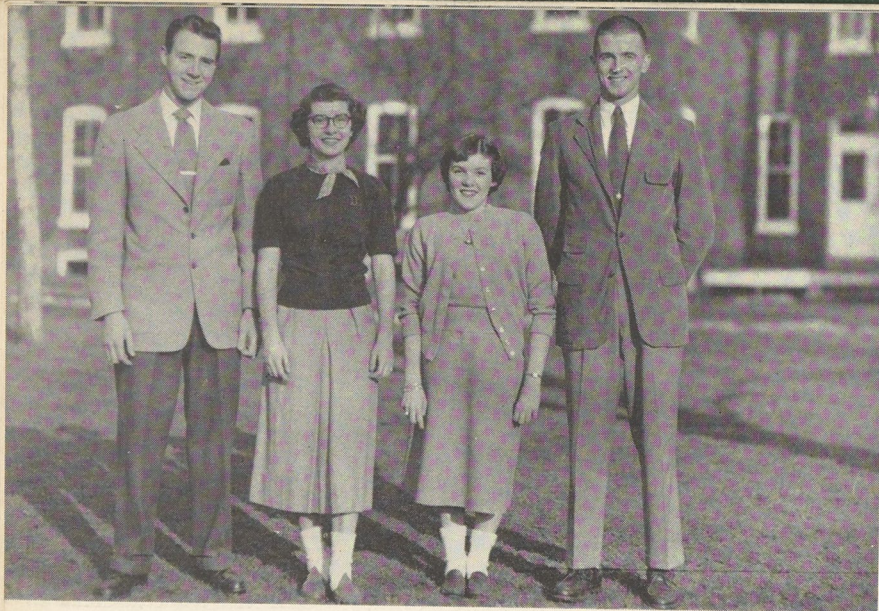

This past year has been a memorable one! Finding ourselves without a leader last Fall, we soon elevated Bob Wagoner from "Vice" to President and elected Jack Ulsh Vice President. Jane Abel and Harold Keener completed our staff of officers.

As usual, we took over the task of introducing the "Frosh" to the ways of college life. We climaxed this initiation by winning two of the three games on Homecoming Day, thus forcing the Freshmen gloomily to retain their dinks for an extra week. As the year progressed we began to accept the Freshmen as equals—almost!

Both the Juniatian and the Alfarata recognized the second year students as workers and leaders. In sports, too, we kept up with the best class. In football alone, eight of nine sophomore gridgers won letters. Outstanding was the work of "Lucky" Loschiavo.

Many other phases of college life throughout the year occupied our attention. The band, orchestra, both choirs, and dramatic activities found our members participating. Well remembered is Phyllis Link's fine performance in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay". All considered, this has been a propitious and busy year for the Class of '53. But now we look forward to a year of even greater achievement as Juniors.

Freshman Class

It seems so long ago, yet it has been but nine months since the class of 1954 donned their dinks and namecards which marked them as the new aspirants to a college education. To look at this miscellaneous lot, one might have thought that perhaps in time, they would merit the title of "fellow students," but with astonishing success, they soon assumed places of responsibility and respect. A well-behaved group, the class took their Freshmen regulations in spirit and proved to the upperclassmen that they were capable of carrying out the duties of college students. The usual college activities, such as athletics, plays, student organizations and campus functions immediately felt their influence. The newly formed dance band was made up largely of freshmen; the athletic teams depended heavily upon their freshmen members; and the classrooms were graced by their more studious members.

Electing John Cook, Ray McHenry, Diane Bramhall and Dagmar Silldorff to lead them, they capably entertained the student body at their mid-winter dance and, generally, kept the upperclassmen on their toes in matters of student leadership. Coming to Juniata, for the most part, straight out of high schools, they brought with them new ideas and plans for making campus life more lively, successful and enjoyable. Now they stand behind their achievements and demand recognition as an outstanding class with ambitions for the forth-coming years on the Juniata campus. Undoubtedly, in future years, they will continue to strive for leadership and responsibility.

We get music out of a pumpkin for one night!

After creating the illusion in “Our Hearts—” comes the task of tearing it apart, and swiftly, too
Let’s watch where we pour the paint.

Organizations

Standing: Raymond Kreider, Men's House; Hilton Hines, Vice President; Vernon Showalter, President; David Armacost, Publications; Donald Howe, Central Treasurer; Charles Allison, Underclassmen; Donald Treese, Religious Activities; Robert Elder, Social Activities.

The Juniata College Student Senate serves as a very important link for co-operation and understanding between the students and the College.

The twelve-member body represents all areas of campus life, from social to religious. It is ever mindful of the needs and wishes of its electorate—the students—while in its regular meetings, it discusses issues of student concern. The Senate has direct jurisdiction in such matters as appointment of JWSF Drive chairman and co-ordinator of the student musical. In matters concerning the administration or faculty the Senate passes recommendations which are presented to the administration for consideration. Frequently, these recommendations are adopted and play an important part in improving college life. Particularly is this true of the resolutions which come out of the annual leadership Conference held at Camp Kanesatake at the beginning of the school year. The initiation of grace before the main meal of the day and the selection of long-term table heads were two significant ideas which grew out of the Conference this year.

The College Senate also had a hand in two other important developments this year. The establishment and strengthening of the Juniata Christian Association under the Senate Chairman of Religious Activities re-juvenated religious life on the campus.

The organization of the Campus Dance band to play at special dances solved the problem of providing live dance music for important social events, thus making them more enjoyable.

The Senate, considered as a unit, acts as a barometer of student sentiment, presents the student view, and works for a closer harmony between students and faculty-administration activities.

Men's House Committee

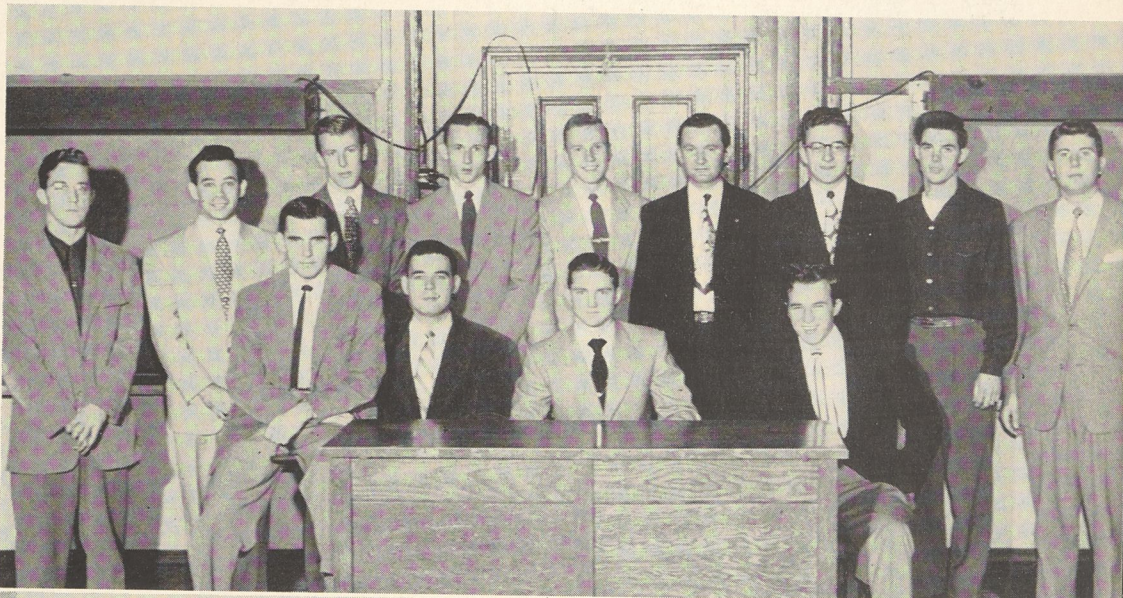

Responsible for maintaining favorable living conditions in the men's dormitories, and promoting better co-operation in dormitory life, this year's Men's House Committee functioned under the leadership of Raymond Kreider, Senate Chairman of Men's House, ably assisted by hall representatives from the Lodge and the Cloister.

For Homecoming weekend, displays were made by the men students and during "open house" in the dorms, the Committee assumed the responsibility for the proper appearance of the students' rooms.

The importance of this Committee should not be underestimated, for it is an organization which serves and regulates the everyday life of the men students on campus.

Women's House Committee

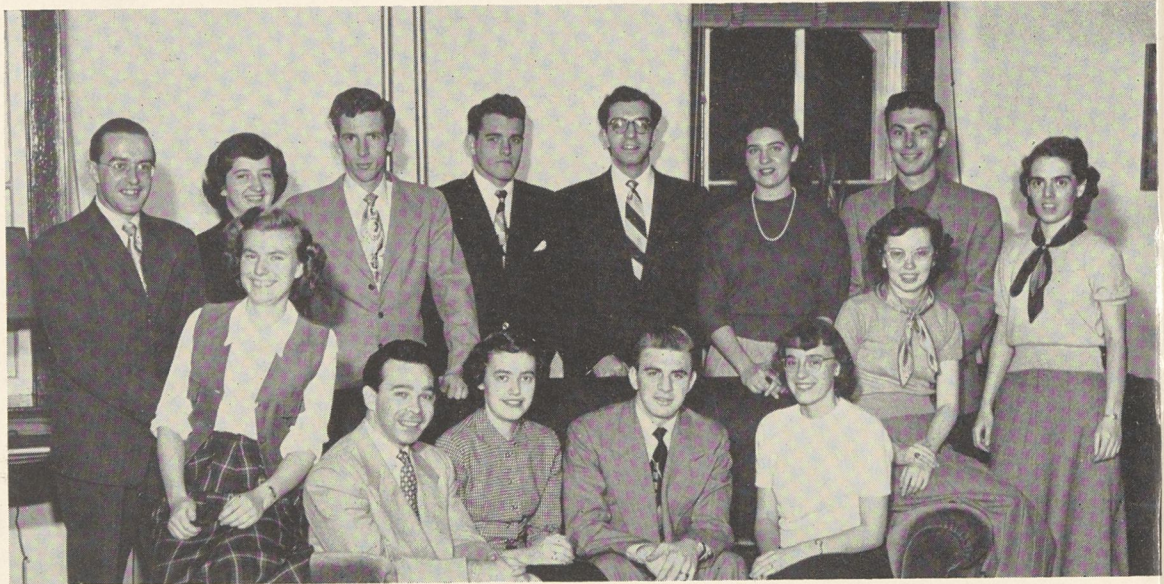

Under the leadership of Ruth Kimble, Chairman of the Women's House Committee, the Committee was again able to accomplish much toward improving dormitory life. The group was granted several concessions, the money from which was used to purchase more irons and ironing boards for the women's dormitory.

Another project sponsored by the House Committee was that of providing a box-luncheon for the women day students of the College. In addition to this, it is the duty of the Committee to see that dormitory regulations are obeyed and to do all they can to further the enjoyment of dormitory living.

Social Committee

2nd row: B. Swindell, E. M. Weist, G. Felix, B. Folk, F. Shamlian, E. Roberts, B. Carpenter, V. Compton

The problem of providing social activity for a college weekend is a task of Herculean nature. As always, this job falls to the Social Committee, headed this year by Chairman Bob Elder. The difficult task of planning programs that would be varied in nature and of nearly universal appeal was splendidly handled by a capable Committee.

Traditions such as Sadie Hawkins Day, the class parties, and Homecoming Day, were retained as such and additional programs of dances, parties, and movies were added to the list of activities in the effort to provide the well known "psychological break" for the study-bound student.

Underclassmen Committee

The arduous job of orienting the incoming Freshmen and enforcing Freshmen regulations belongs to the Underclassmen Committee headed this year by Senate Chairman Charles Allison. This trying task of supervision and punitive guidance was made more difficult by the large size of the Freshmen class. However, one needs only to think back to the early days of the Fall term to realize the achievement of the Underclass Committee. The swift assimilation of the class of '54 by the remainder of the College community stands as proof of the capability and efficiency of the Committee which guided the Frosh.

Through club fellowship, this group of elementary education majors seeks to be aware of current trends in the education field, and to solve some of its teaching problems.

Programs during the year were both helpful and interesting. Miss Gail Haldeman, art teacher of the Huntingdon Public Schools, spoke of techniques and teaching opportunities; Miss Miriam Schlegel, of the Elementary Education Department, told of her teaching experiences in Cairo; field trips were taken; and letters from Juniata graduates, now teaching, were read. Also, a branch of the club, the Children's Literature Class, sponsored National Book Week.

By promoting interest in education the club hopes to develop future teachers who will be actively concerned about their vocations.

J. J. A.

This group of students, headed by George Kensinger, President, forms the large Juniata chapter of the Future Teachers of America and is the united voice of those who aim to make education their career. When sent into the teaching world, its members are experienced and well-trained, ready to teach the younger generation of Americans.

The club meetings, which were both enlightening and entertaining, brought speakers with teaching experience before this ambitious group.

Affiliated with the Pennsylvania State Educational Association and the National Educational Association, this club is making its presence known and appreciated both on campus and in high schools throughout this area.

Lambda Gamma

Promotion of closer social relationships among girls interested in the homemaker's field has been the aim of the Lambda Gamma.

Talks by foreign students carried out a world relatedness theme for the year. Last Fall for the first time the group played hostess to the Province II Workshop, when students from thirty-three colleges in seven states were represented on the Juniata campus. Home Economics Day was held in February with Penn State students as guests. Among their service projects, the girls sent aid in the form of food, clothing, and magazines to the University of Austria and the University of Poland.

Tycoon Club

The Tycoon Club of Juniata College, composed of students majoring in the Department of Economics and Business Administration, exists for the purpose of stimulating greater interest in the practical aspects of business—especially those aspects related to present-day problems.

At the semi-monthly club meetings various guest speakers discussed timely and pertinent topics, among them merchandising, banking, the relations of law and business, and employer-employee relations. Also in these meetings the opportunity was provided for the kind of free and informal group discussions not always possible in the classroom.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club is an organization for everyone who is interested in that language and in Spanish-speaking countries.

During this year the club saw movies and photographs of Mexico and sang many of the new Spanish songs and well-known folk songs. Near the Christmas season they combined with the French Club for a Christmas party, attempting to celebrate this holiday in much the same way as the French or Spanish would.

Membership in the Spanish Club is an excellent means for practice in speaking Spanish and for discovering new and exciting things about our South American neighbors.

French Club

The French Club is an organization of those wishing to further the development of their spoken French. Here, teacher and students are given a chance to converse in the absence of the classroom atmosphere and to integrate their knowledge with present day life.

Programs at the monthly meetings this year consisted mainly of slides, puppet shows, lectures and a joint Christmas party with the Spanish Club.

Continuing each year with the idea that a knowledge of a foreign language can better foster world peace, the members hope to teach an appreciation for and an understanding of foreign customs.

Chemistry Club

The Chemistry Club, an organization of students who are majoring in chemistry and associated fields, has as its two-fold purpose, to provide an opportunity for chemistry students to participate as a body in extra-curricular activities, and to spur interest in industrial applications, current problems, and developments of science. Thus, men and methods are observed through lectures, movies, and visits to surrounding industrial plants.

The club, a student chapter of the American Chemical Society, "lets down its hair" once a year for its off-campus spring outing, and contributes to the betterment of general campus life by sponsoring radio programs, movies, and parties.

Scalpel and Probe Club

Scalpel and Probe, composed of biology and pre-medical students, brings speeches, movies, and information concerning medicine and related subjects to its members and other interested persons. During the year, Scalpel and Probe members endeavor to make several trips to hospitals and clinics, where they obtain first-hand information on hospital equipment and operative procedures. Serving as faculty advisers of this organization are Dr. Homer Will and Mr. Alexander Bartha.

Debate Club

Seated: Miss Esaley, G. Fry-singer, President

Standing: Dr. Henry, C. Kipp, R. Fowler, Manager; C. Rosen-berger, R. Cherry

The Juniata College Debating Society has successfully completed another year of activities under the capable direction of Miss Lois Esaley and Dr. Tobias Henry.

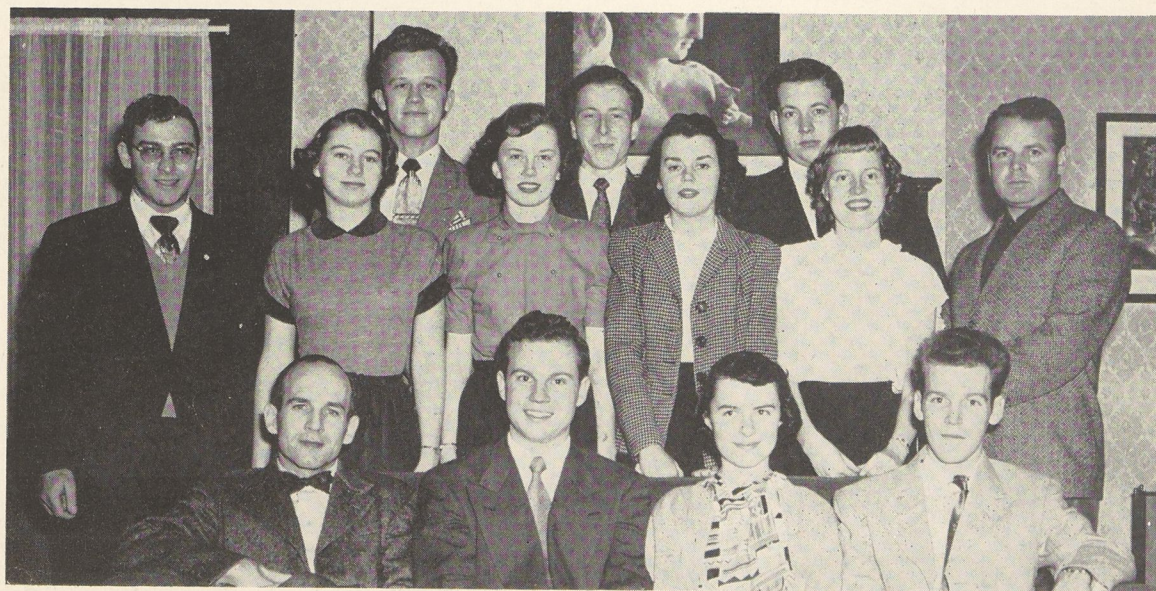

This year the question under discussion was: "Resolved, that the non-Communist nations should form a new international organization." Following numerous debates with teams from nearby colleges, the season was climaxed by a commendable performance at the state debating tournament at Temple University.

"On looking back over the year, we may say that we are proud of our accomplishments," says Galen Frysinger, President of the club.

International Relations Club

Made up of a group of students interested in gaining a better understanding of world problems and improving world relationships, the IRC put forth an active program this year. Jay Benedict, President, planned meetings at which the foreign students on campus spoke and led discussions on subjects familiar to them.

The IRC, in attempting to promote better understanding among students all over the world, proposed a plan whereby some worthy student would be given a substantial amount of money toward travel and study abroad. Through projects such as these, the International Relations Club has succeeded in furthering its purpose on the Juniata campus.

Sigma Gamma

The Sigma Gamma was established to further interest in the field of sociology, to do research and gain more insight therein, and to consolidate and enrich the experiences of those so interested.

Programs, including outstanding speakers from such organizations as the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the Department of Public Assistance, movies, dealing with current problems and developments in the field of sociology, and a grilling of Seniors in experimental comprehensives aroused unusual interest.

Considerable progress has been made by the Sigma Gamma in its first year by fulfilling the definite need for such an organization on Juniata's campus.

Camera Club

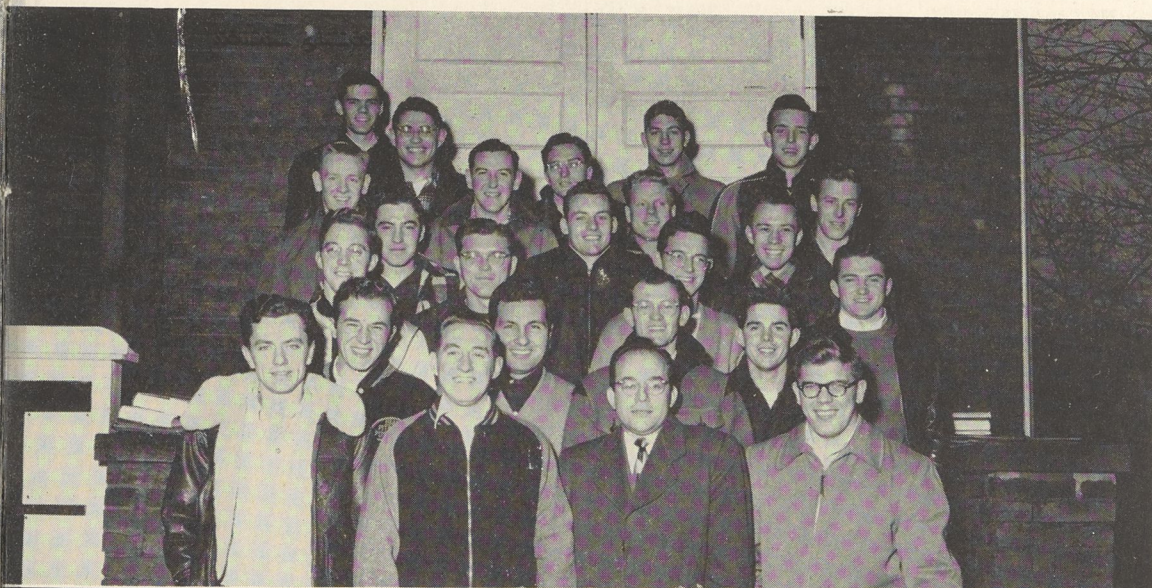

The Camera Club serves numerous purposes—to teach beginners the elemental procedures of taking and developing pictures, to make prints for campus publications, and to unify those students who have interest in photography.

Meetings this year consisted of discussions on developing methods, slide lectures on color and action shots, and a print contest. The dark room was also improved by a Club project of painting the interior.

Though a small group, the Camera Club makes a worthwhile contribution to the College and its activities.

J Club

The Varsity J Club, composed entirely of letter winning athletes from the college sports program, ranks as one of the most active organizations on the campus. Featured in its year-round schedule of activities were the Homecoming dance, booster tags, the Indian, and the presentation of distinctive letter sweaters to its members. Behind this obvious display of activity, however, are the underlying principles of good sportsmanship, fellowship, and promotion of athletics for which the club stands. Headed this year by golfer Art Allen, fullback Mike Mervis, and pitcher Jack Dickey, the club continues to function as the voice of the college's athletes.

W.A.A.

"A sport for every girl and a girl for every sport." This is the motto of the Women's Athletic Association.

Club members participated in the following seasonal sports: hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball. Tournaments were also conducted in the minor sports which included table tennis, badminton, bowling, tennis, and archery, while some W.A.A. members made trips to various colleges which held athletic play-days on a non-competitive basis.

During the monthly meetings the members saw movies, heard speakers, and entertained a Penn State modern dance group. The club also sponsored an officiating class for refereeing basketball games.

Outing Club members this year became amateur architects, carpenters, and painters as they worked together building a college cabin. Named Camp To-Ke-Sta, the student-constructed building is located on land leased to the College by Emory Zook and may be used by any campus organization. In keeping with the purpose of the club—wholesome outdoor recreation (who said chopping wood was recreation?)—weekend outings were held and plans were made for hikes and a swimming party. Members may be recognized by their new Juniata College Outing Club emblems, awarded this year for the first time.

Cheering Squad

Made up of five Juniors, two Sophomores, and five Freshmen, this lively dozen was led by their captain Fred Stauffer and advised by Miss Jane McCormick. The purpose of the squad was to direct the voicing of school spirit in order that genuine sportsmanship may be exhibited on the part of the fans, as well as in the teams themselves.

Where do the actors of Juniata hide when not declaiming some deathless drama or creating some comic character before the audiences of Oller Hall? Answer: attending the bi-monthly meetings of the Masque.

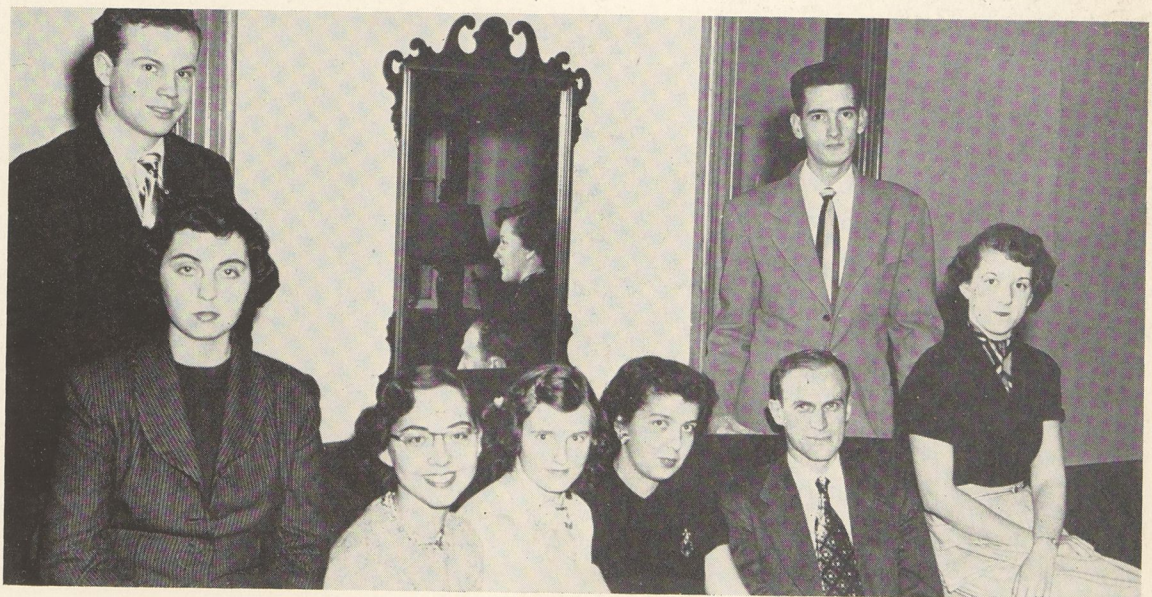

The group produced for their own amusement (and that of all who cared to watch) a Christmas playlet, script-in-hand plays, a party, and heard several speakers on subjects ranging from the theater in Europe to the business and organization of the Masque itself.

Late in the Spring, as always, the Masquer dinner to initiate those who had earned 100 points from work on Masque productions was held. Those receiving this award last Spring were Keith Binkley, Carrie Lou Greene, Betty Longwell, Doris Quinnell, Jim Streiner and Marian Otsubo.

Radio Committee

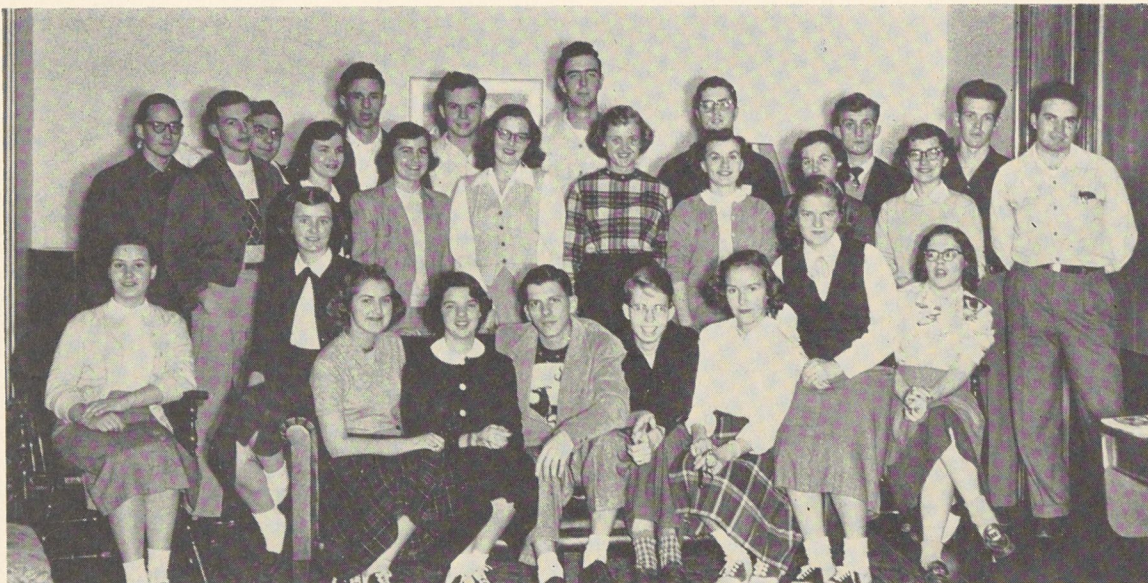

The responsibility of the Radio Committee is to utilize to the best advantage the possibilities for publicity offered the college by the larger radio station WHUN, yet at the same time, to present programs of general cultural interest.

Special broadcasts were presented on such features as the Homecoming fairy tale by the Juniata staff, Thanksgiving and Christmas devotional programs, and the guest speaker from Spiritual Emphasis Week, with the Community Week broadcast as the highlight of the year. In addition, every Tuesday and Thursday Turntable Terrace offered a job for future disc jockeys.

Juniatian

Every Wednesday night, about 12 o'clock, Mac, the night watchman, may be seen down at The Juniatian office, gently suggesting to the over-worked staff of said paper that they go to bed or else get a bill for wasted electricity. So, of course, the faithful crew leave promptly, an hour and a half later, that is. After a hectic session at the establishment of J. G. Lesher and Son the next afternoon, the editor and managing editor who, by this time, gained a rather serious outlook on life, scurry up to school just in time to miss dinner.

Honestly, though, it isn't as bad as it sounds for actually there's nothing like bringing the news to the Juniata public. This is operation All-American. That's why, at JC, nearly everybody reads The Juniatian.

Indian

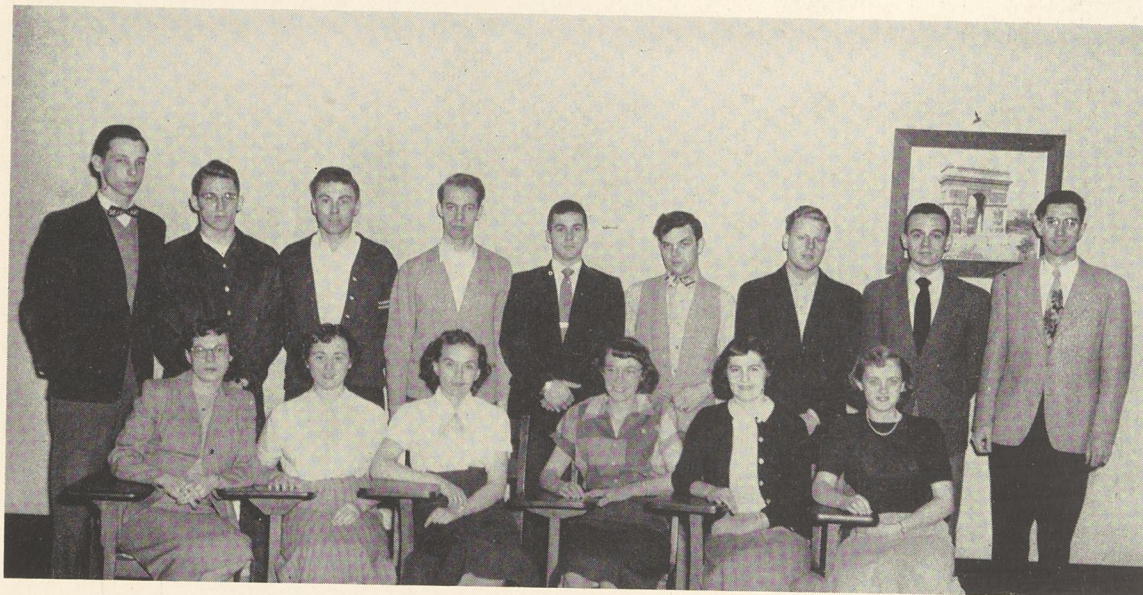

Published for every home football game, The Indian this year was edited by Bob Jones. This program contained the facts and figures about the two teams playing, pictures of the players and coaches, and statistics on previous games played.

Jack Rothenberger was in charge of circulation for this year's volume while Art Allen was business manager and Jack Dickey headed the advertising staff.

This is it—a pictorial record of another year at Juniata College. As you scan these pages, you will no doubt be reminded of the people, events, organizations, professors, and everything else that goes to make life at Juniata. But underneath everything, you will see a story of teamwork: teamwork among the men on the football field; teamwork among the students in producing "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay"; and teamwork between the professors and students in the biggest project of all—learning.

The Scout, published every year for the benefit of incoming students, gives the Freshman a good introduction to Juniata College. Within its pages one may find information on what to bring to College, freshman regulations, dormitory rules and a general preview of the coming year at Juniata. Included also is up-to-date information on College sports—both men's and women's, a guide to campus clubs and organizations and several pages of JC songs and cheers which Freshmen are responsible for knowing.

Juniata College Band

Juniata College can be justly proud of its neatly clad blue and gold marching band. Directed by Professor Jack E. Brammer and commanded on the field by Drum Major Richard Akers, it was an added attraction to the football games throughout the season.

This year the band and cheerleaders worked out some cheers which required the combined efforts of the band, cheering squad, and students.

In the Spring the band participated in the annual concert, displaying its talents as a concert band as well as a marching band.

Dance Band

A situation which has long been plaguing the college's social functions, namely the lack of "live" music, was remedied this year by the formation of our own campus dance band. The band, usually about fourteen pieces, was formed solely from the college students, and has played at the more important dances of the year. Their initial appearance was at the Homecoming dance and since then, the band has appeared at the class parties and at the Christmas formal. In short, the appearance of this musical organization has added lustre and a distinctive atmosphere to the College social program.

Juniata College Orchestra

The Juniata College Symphony Orchestra provides the performer as well as the listener with the opportunity for enjoyment and appreciation of fine instrumental music whether it be light, semi-classic, or classic. The symphony, under the capable direction of Professor Jack Brammer, presents a concert each year during commencement week. Added to this is the musical accompaniment provided by the orchestra for the annual May Day festivities and for the Spring operetta, which this year was Rudolph Friml's "Firefly." The fine performances given by the orchestra are possible only because of the regular rehearsals each week plus the interest and diligence of its members.

Chapel Choir

The Juniata College Chapel Choir is an on-campus organization, consisting of twenty-six members, under the direction of Professor Donald S. Johnson. This choir provides choral responses, leads the hymn singing, and, on occasion sings anthems for the college chapel services.

In December the choir, assisted by a cast composed largely of music majors, presented "A Mystery for Christmas," arranged and composed by Howard D. McKinney. This religious spectacle was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience.

Religious Life

Founded on Christian principles, growing in Christian purposes, and expounding Christian ideals, Juniata encourages its students in spiritual development as well as academic achievement. Religious activities highlighted by Spiritual Emphasis Week play an important role in campus life. Students are encouraged to attend the church of their choice each Sunday and are expected to attend the College chapel service. Required courses such as Biblical History in the freshman year and Ethics in the senior year are another part of Juniata's attempt to acquaint the students with their Christian heritage.

Juniata Christian Association

In order to attain more effective organization of religious activities on campus, the Juniata Christian Association was formed last Spring. It was organized to integrate the work previously carried out by the YWCA, Student Volunteers, the Ministerium, Dunkard Club, and the President's Bible Class. Thus it became one organized drive aiming toward a deeper spiritual life for every student on campus.

A review of the year's activities reveals a wealth of JCA programs and projects. The membership drive last fall was a huge success with over half of the student body and faculty joining. Immediately following, the year's program got underway. Every Sunday morning throughout the school year the President's Bible Class met for lesson study. Each Tuesday evening was devoted to commission programs, with one meeting per month used for a discussion of controversial religious and social issues. Bi-monthly worship and business meetings were held, at which time the association membership had opportunity to express itself to its elected representatives. Two Sunday evening conferences were sponsored, one on marriage, the other on vocations. Spiritual Emphasis Week, led by the Reverend Marvin of Lewistown, proved to be one of the major campus events of the year. Denominational interests were maintained through the formation of denominational clubs, organized under the direction of the Ecumenical Committee and working in conjunction with local churches. Deputation teams, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, a clothing drive, a faculty counseling service, the Ministerium trip, a contribution to JWSF, and the sending of a delegate to the National Assembly of the Student Christian Movement were among other projects the JCA contributed to our campus life.

JCA meetings were frequently held in Founders Chapel, where is seen a portion of the organization's large membership.

To the cabinet, council, and advisors of the association goes a large amount of credit for the formulation and operation of the year's program. And to all the members of the JCA who supported this new campaign endeavor through attendance, talent, and advice, belongs the gratitude of all those who feel Juniata's spiritual life was deepened this past year.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship chapter on the Juniata campus offered the opportunity for Bible study, knowledge of missionary needs and prayer, while encouraging daily devotions, personal witnessing, and the maintenance of a sound testimony for Christ by the students.

In the weekly Bible study, conducted by the students and guest speakers, profitable discussions were based on I John, Hebrew, and I and II Timothy.

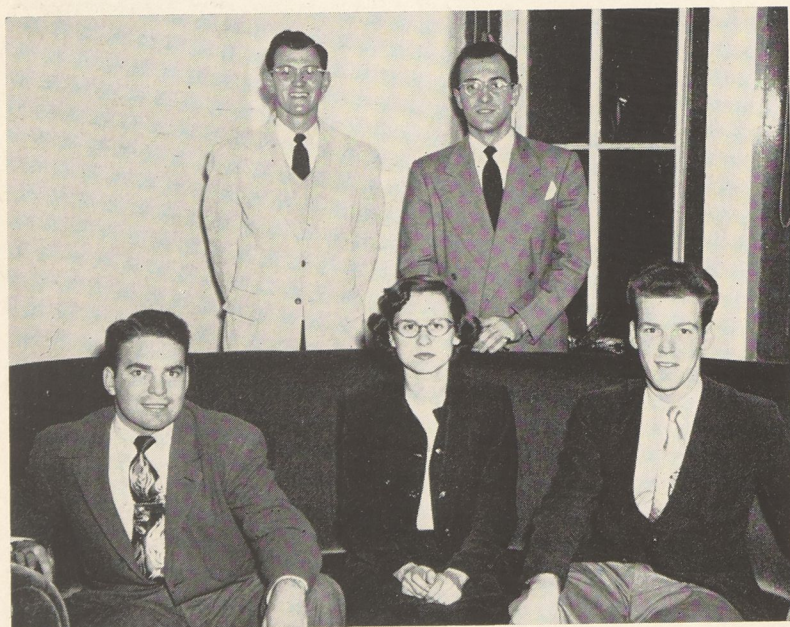

Activities this year included combined meetings with the Penn State IVCF, Fall and Spring conferences with that College to share ideas and problems, and the Missionary Conference held in Lancaster in the early Spring.

J. W. S. F.

This year the JWSF drive again went over the top of our $1951 goal, reaching $1985 by the time the Alfarata went to press.

Money obtained from this drive went to four beneficiaries this year. The Red Cross, two Brethren missionaries, Stover Kulp and Benton Rhodes, The World Student Service Fund, and the Foreign Student Aid Fund of Juniata each received a share of the money that was contributed by students, faculty, administration, clubs, and friends of the college.

The 1951 drive was headed by Jay Benedict. Working with him were Jack Middour, Chairman of Publicity; Art Allen, Chairman of Solicitations; Beverly Williams, Secretary; and Keith Binkley, Treasurer.

One of the most widely known organizations on campus is the A Cappella Choir whose membership consists of 35 of Juniata's finest singers. This year, another successful season, marked the choir's 19th year of performance.

The annual choir trip, which included cities in Ohio this year for the first time, is the highlight of the year. Nineteen concerts in twelve western Pennsylvania and Ohio towns were presented in the ten-day tour.

The choir's program also included four weekend trips, a home concert in Oller Hall, the annual Mother's Day concert in the Huntingdon Lutheran Church, and the Commencement oratorio "Messiah", in which the choir is joined by alumni and other campus singers.

The choir again enjoyed the inspired direction of Prof. Charles L. Rowland and the leadership of the following officers: Gerald Hartzel, President; Clyde Johnson, Manager; Lois Wible, Assistant Manager; Doris Mickle, Secretary; Clair Schaffner, Treasurer; Edith Roberts, Publicity.

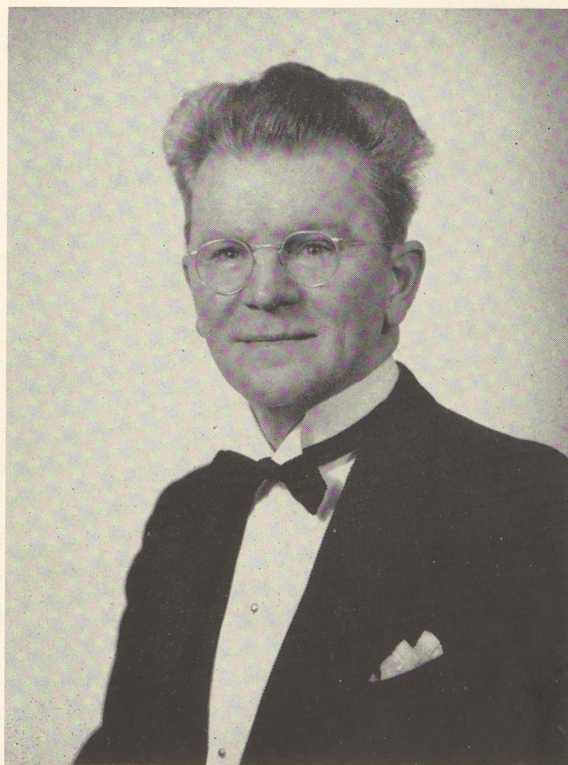

Charles L. Rowland Retires

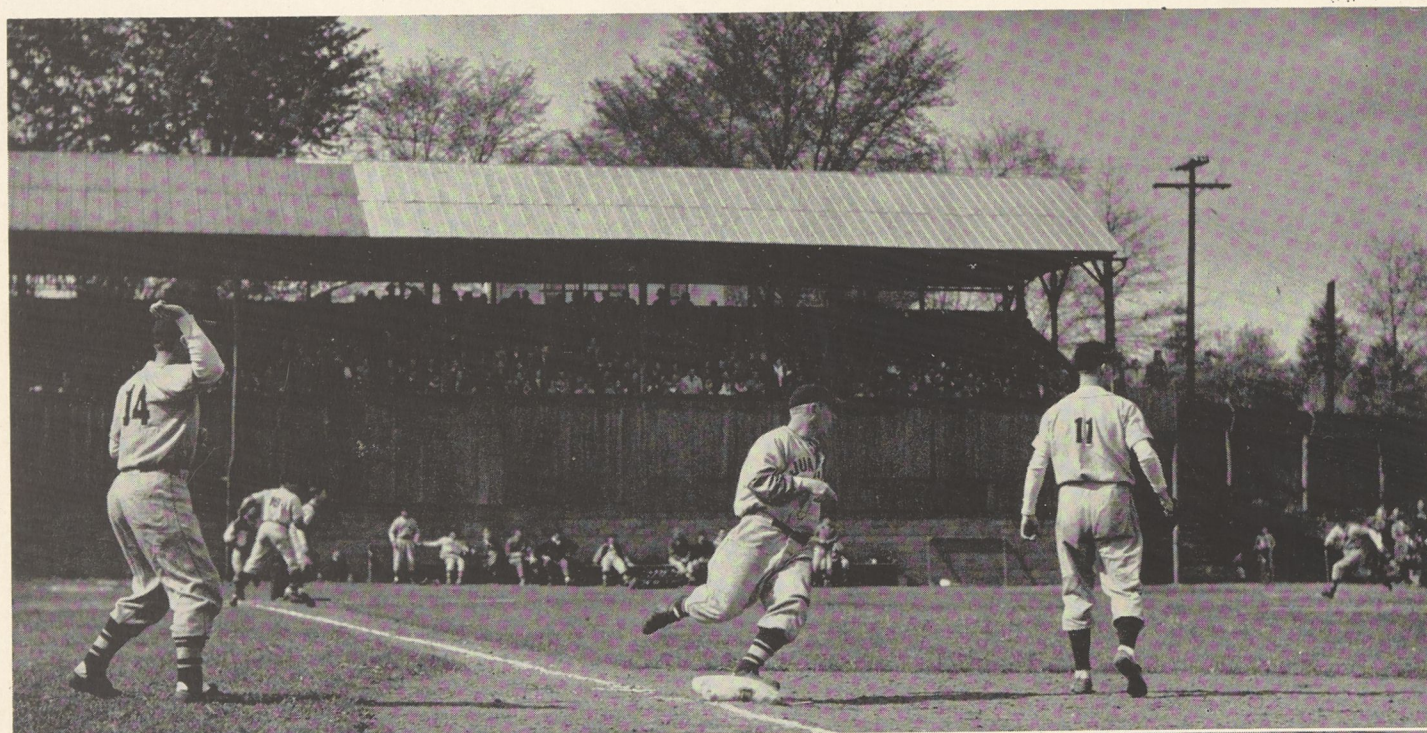

This year Juniata College loses one of its beloved teachers in the retirement of Prof. Charles L. Rowland, a member of the music faculty at Juniata since 1920 and director of the A Cappella Choir since its organization in 1932.

"Prof," as he is affectionately called, was graduated from Blue Ridge College, Md., in 1908, and the first man in the Church of the Brethren to receive a bachelor's degree in music, which was from Brandon Institute Music School in 1917. He has done graduate work at Westminster Choir School, Christiansen Choir School, Fred Waring's Workshop, Peabody Conservatory, and Columbia University.

Among Prof. Rowland's accomplishments is the direction of 930 concerts, including 31 consecutive Mother's Day Concerts in the St. James Lutheran Church in Huntingdon. Campus singers and alumni annually unite under his direction to sing one of the great oratorios on Commencement weekend. "The Messiah" was chosen this year for Prof. Rowland's final performance.

Students and faculty who have had any contact with Prof. Rowland will remember him as a true and a Christian teacher. We shall miss him.

"BILL" SMALTZ
Head Coach

"The general feeling on College Hill is that 1950 will be a building year for the Indians", wrote Ted Battles, sports editor of the Daily News, Huntingdon, in a pre-season appraisal. Looking back over the season we can say that in a sense Ted was right. The 1949 team recorded the best season in 27 years of play by winning five and losing two. Without any hesitancy we can say that Meteor Dzvonar was the undisputed spark plug of that great year . . . but, the Meteor, along with 12 other lettermen, was missing when Coach Bill Smaltz called roll for the first practice of 1951. Since these men were more than normal losses and since the schedule was extended to eight games for the first time since 1937, Coach Bill Smaltz had his share of pre-season anxiety. Nevertheless our Indians rolled up a total of four wins and four defeats. An average of .500 is pretty good in any league.

Twelve lettermen answered the early Fall call to practice along with a crop of 21 newcomers and a host of last season's non-lettermen. In this day of a two platoon system this didn't give our coaching staff much to work with but as the results show, our coaches deserve much praise for their fine efforts to mould a winning team.

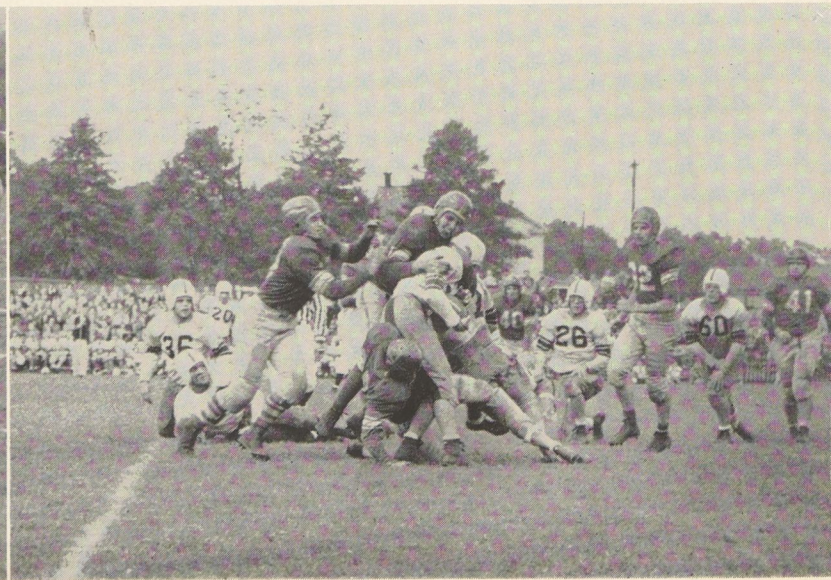

Returning lettermen on the line were: Coy Hicks (a three-time J winner and one of the finest guards in the business despite his size), Bob Morrissey, Bob Smith, and Bob Wagoner at end, Don Brumbaugh and Joe Thomasberger at tackle, Gene Shaffer at guard or tackle, and Jerry Africa at center.

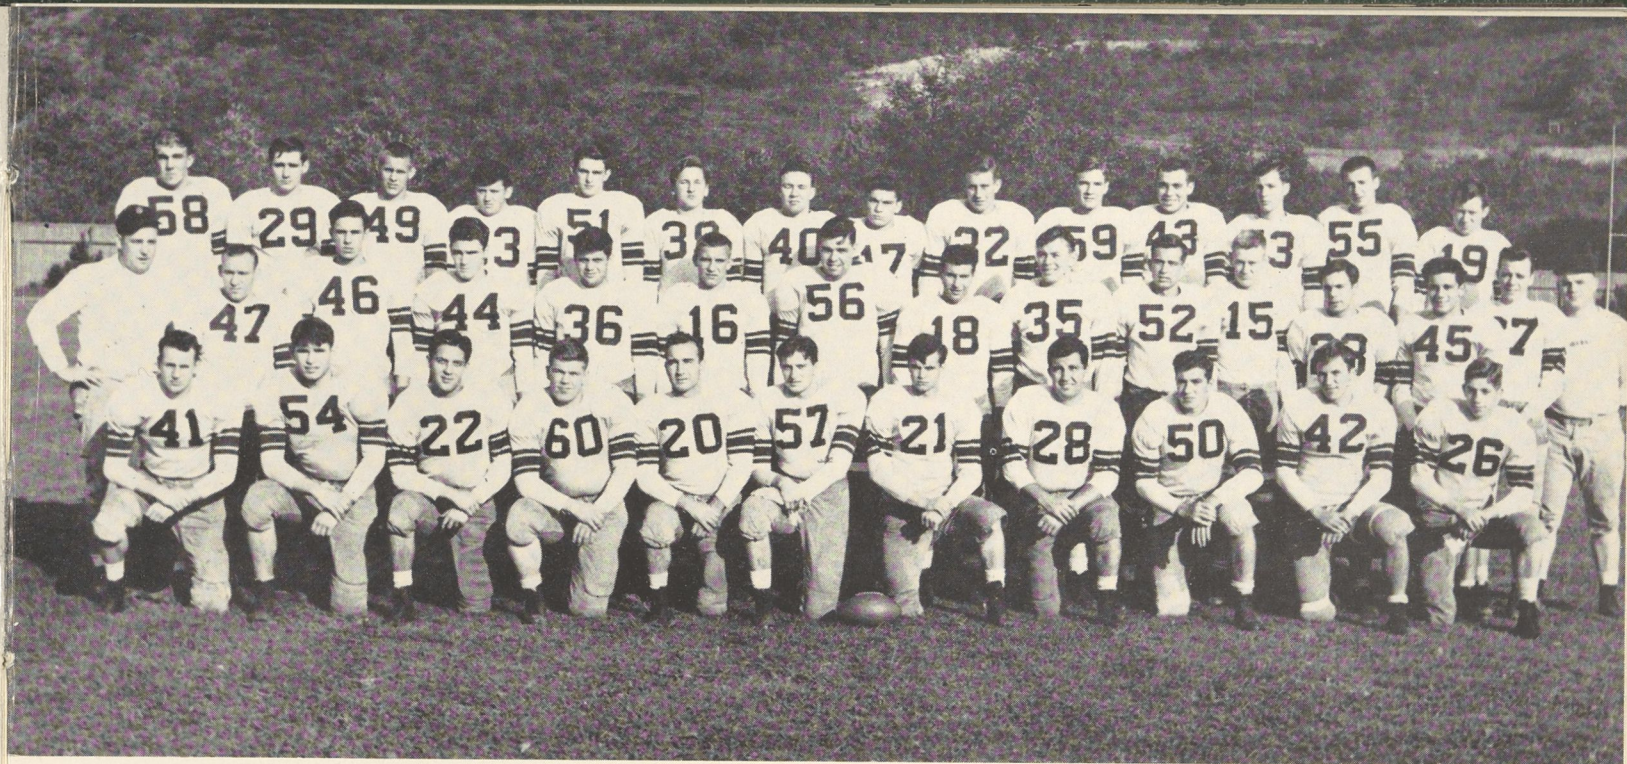

In the backfield, where we were hard hit by losses, the only lettermen to return were Phil Chabody at wingback, Dick Young at quarterback, and Joe Dobal and Mike Mervis, both fullbacks. Chabody was also a three letterman and alternated at tailback—the spot left vacant by Dzvonar. Chabody and Hicks were co-captains for the season.

Sept. 30. Westminster 12-13

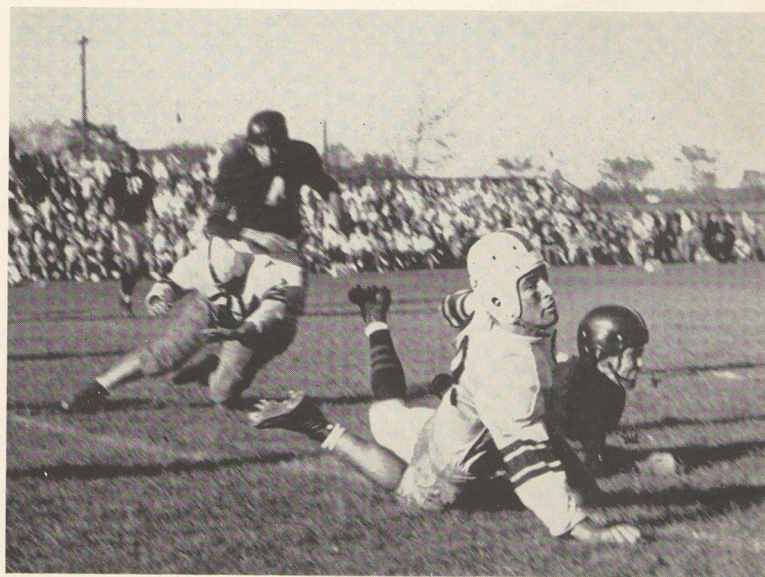

Sometimes it is too bad there are two halves to a ball game instead of just the first. The Indians won the first half by 12-0 and the Titans won the second half by 13-0. If only the Indians would have made their extra points . . . oh well, they didn't and we lost by one point. The two platoon system of Westminster spelled defeat for the Indians in the second half, but the Indians showed they had what it takes to spell trouble for the oncoming opponent.

Oct. 7. Hartwick 13-20

It was the second game of the season, second straight setback, first game on College Hill, and first time since Coach Bill's initial season in 1947 that the Indians had lost two in a row. It was Hartwick's first victory since their coach became official mentor in 1949 and also the first time in a series of six games, that Hartwick had beaten Juniata. The pass snatching of Joe Stattan shattered the Indians' hopes of victory. On the statistics tables JC far out-pointed Hartwick but it is touchdowns that win a game, and Hartwick seemed to get more than Juniata.

Oct. 14. Susquehanna 19-12

The Indians led by Coy Hicks came through with flying colors against the old razzle dazzle of Amos Alonzo Stagg's team. Hicks was the key-man but ten others were "important tormentors". The game was won by the excellent defensive play of Bucko Morrissey, Joe Thomasberger, Bill Waryck, Burt Hackett, and Gene Shaffer on the line and Dave LeFevre, Ron Clapper, Don Patricelli, Ed Gould, Red Orler, and Coy Hicks in the backfield.

Loschiavo goes for a gain in the Homecoming game.

Oct. 21. Haverford 7-13

Many an alumnus went away from our 75th Anniversary Homecoming Day disappointed. Victory was in the air but for the first time since 1926 Juniata went down in defeat against the Fords. Maybe it was over-confidence or maybe it was inexperience . . . maybe it was the absence of such regulars as Phil Chabody, Joe Dobal, Bob Wagoner and Red Orlor because of injuries . . . or maybe it was the weather. The Indians didn't stop trying but it just wasn't our day for football.

Oct. 28. Dickinson 0-26

The toughest team we faced and the worst lacing of the season came at the hand of Dickinson. The crippled Indians, lacking the offensive punch of their leading ground gainer, Lundy Loschiavo, simply found the going rough at Carlisle. The game was lost in the opening quarter when Mathewson opened up a burst of scoring against us. After this game the total record of wins and losses didn't look too good, but from here on out . . . look out opponents!

Nov. 4. Lycoming 33-0

For the first time this season Coach Smaltz used all 40 men on the squad before a rain soaked Parent's Day crowd. The scoring was distributed between five men, Mike Mervis, Harry Campbell, Phil Chabody, Rocco Ortenzio, and Lundy Loschiavo. This victory greatly revived the spirit on College Hill and the Indians went forward to new conquests in the weeks to come.

Nov. 11. Grove City 19-6

Not since Dznovar's display of running power against Moravian in his collegiate finale last year has any Juniata player demonstrated the offensive zip of Phil Chabody and Joe Dobal. These two rolled up nearly 300 yards by rushing which was nearly all of the 362 net yards rushing credited to the Indians for the entire game. Our defensive team was great despite the seemingly over-sized team of Grove City.

Nov. 18. Washington 19-13

The last game of the year balanced the win-lose columns and provided a very exciting afternoon for the fans. It was a team victory over a team which, Bill Smaltz said, was "the best team we ever played." He went on to say, "If we had played all season just two-third of the football we played today, no team would have beaten us."

Phil Chabody heads down the field with Dick Young helping to clear the way.

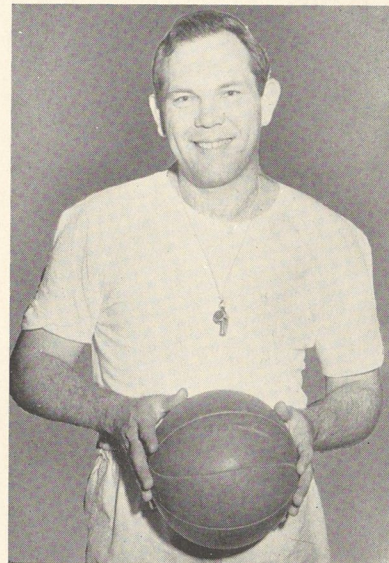

On the Hardwood

Dr. Greene's sophomore year at coaching the Indians did not turn out as well as he had hoped as far as statistics is concerned. In the results column we find that Juniata has won only four and lost twelve. But, statistics are not the only or "real" measure of success of a team. Of greater importance is how the team played, how it took its defeats, and how much fun the players gained from the experience of the game. In these more important terms our team can truly say that it has had a successful season.

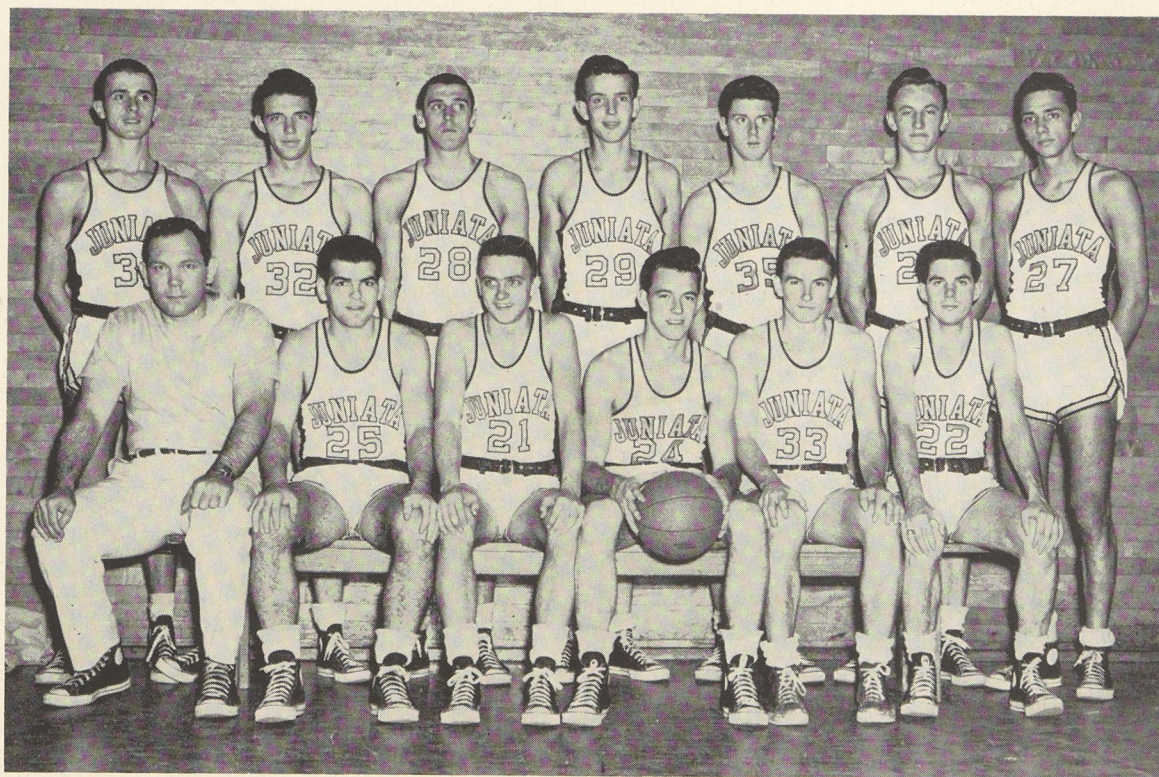

The 1951 basketball season opened with a defeat at the hands of Lycoming College to the tune of 70-63. Juniata led in the early stages of the game but after Lycoming took a 5-4 lead they were never headed. Karl Park, Tommy Green, and John Cook showed that they had plenty "on the ball" and served warning to future opponents.

Capitalizing on an excellent fast break, Bucknell outscored the Tribe in every period of the second game. The Bisons had a decided height advantage and put it to good use by beating the Indians 87-54.

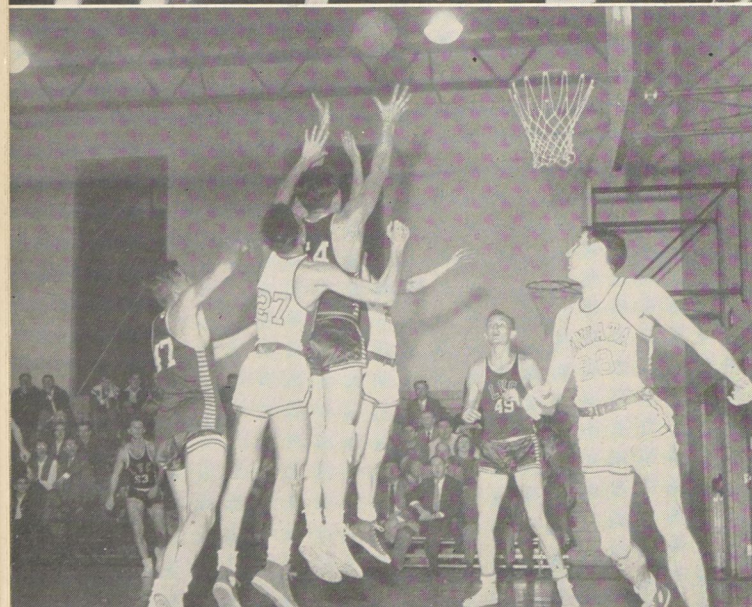

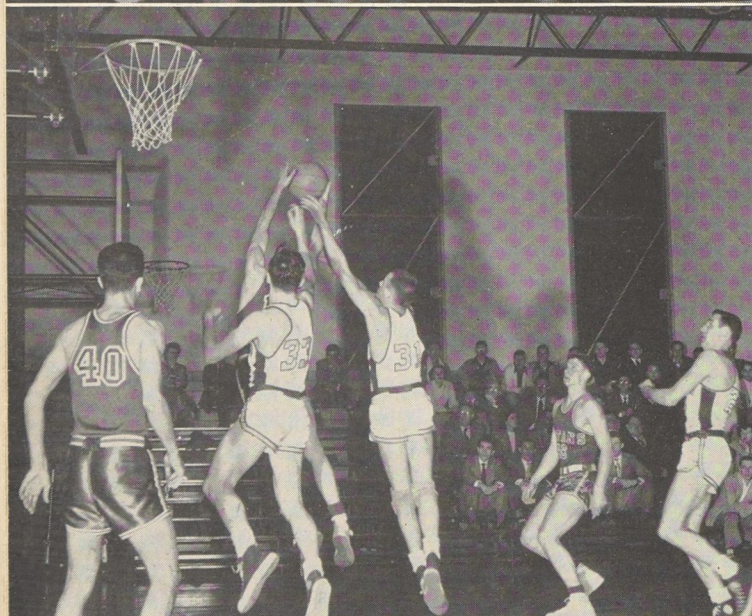

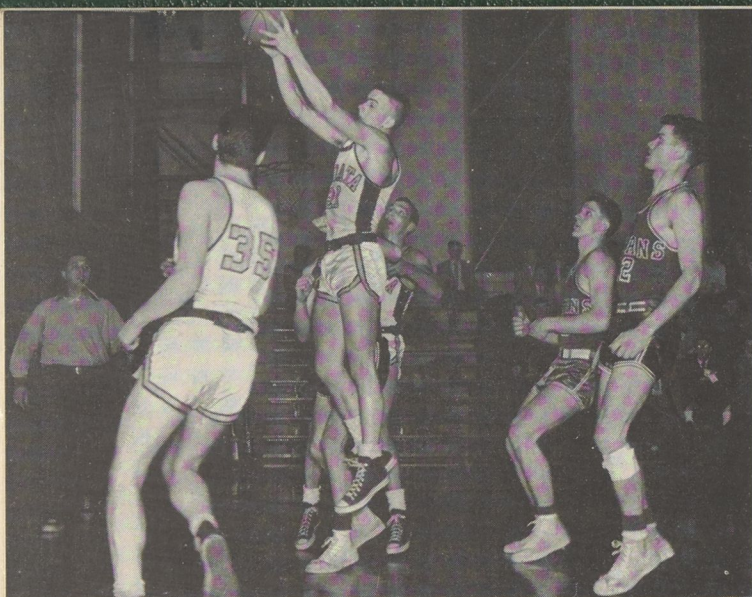

"DOC" GREENE
Coach

After losing two straight, the Indians made a gallant comeback against E-town on the local high school court by beating them 41-39. Playing the HAZ defense, the Indians kept the visitors in check most of the evening. Captain Korody led the team scoring with 13 points.

Karl Park gets the rebound as Ed Feldkircher comes up.

John Cook and Tommy Green go after a rebound in the Westminster game as Leo Kuhn moves in.

Ed Weirauch tries for altitude while Leo Kuhn approaches in Juniata's triumph over Lebanon Valley.

In the first of the two-game western trip Grove City beat the Indians 57-37. The Grovers got off to a 15-5 first quarter score and the Tribe just couldn't catch up. Because of a distinct height advantage and control of the backboards the Indians could do little.

What seemed to be an easy win turned out to be just another defeat at the hands of Allegheny College at Meadville. The team played in their usual good form but Allegheny outscored them 56-55.

The Indians lost three of their four games in January, one by a single point to Dickinson in overtime, 62-61. Drexel Tech and Lebanon Valley beat them by scores of 65-50 and 74-60 respectively. In their lone win of this series the Indians trounced Susquehanna 61-50. Karl Park scored 88 points in the four games.

Dwarfed again by a skyscraper aggregation the Juniata Indians went down to their ninth defeat on Feb. 18 at Reading against Albright College. The first half was close but Albright ran away in the second half, winning by 78-59.

With Captain Ray Korody sitting the next game out as a result of an ankle sprain, the Indians met defeat once more, this time at the hands of St. Francis. Both teams played a race horse game but St. Francis was just too good for the Indians and won 90-49, one of the worst defeats of the season. St. Francis' three platoon system and superior height were reason enough to bow to them in defeat.

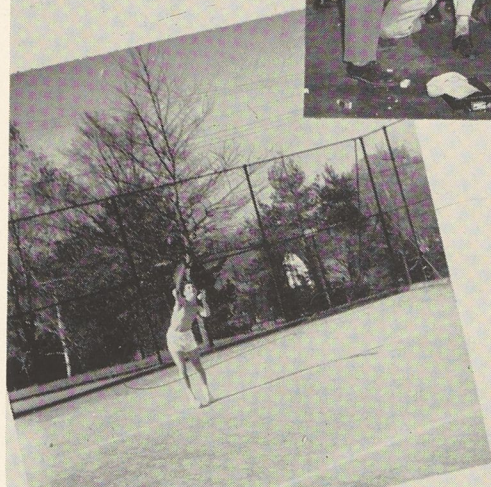

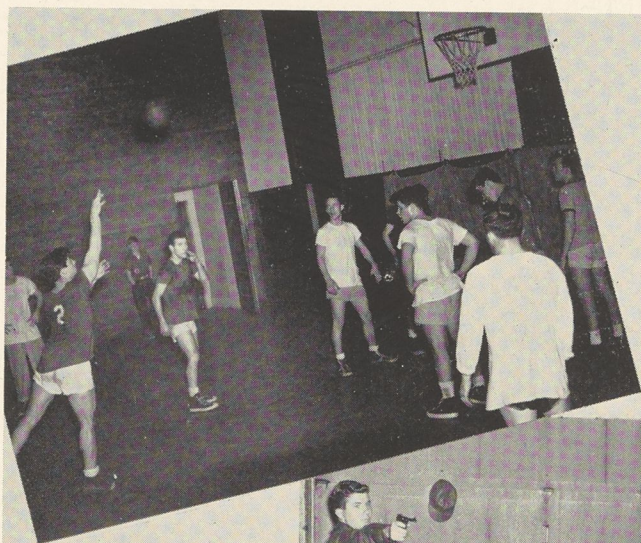

The Tribe split two return games with E-town and Lebanon Valley. Yet losing to E-town by a wide margin didn't slow the team up, because four days later they beat Lebanon Valley for the first time since the '28-'29 season.

Franklin and Marshall scored a 73-65 win over the Indians in the second last game of the year. Finally, the Indians wound up the hoop season on a successful note as they defeated Susquehanna by a score of 64-51.

Only three men went over the 100 mark in scoring; Karl Park with 296 points and averaging 18.5 per game, Tommy Green with 167 points, and Ray Korody netting 103 points.

At the start of the season Dr. Greene was not optimistic about the season but he did promise an aggressive ball team that would improve with time. Looking back over the season we can truthfully say that "Doc" was right. The teams which played against our Indians knew they were in a tough game even if they did happen to win.

Intramural Sports

It looks good.

Service ace

Now squ-e-e-ze it off.

A strike in the making.

Careful with that stick!

J. C.'s Intramural Sports Program is, in many respects, of as great importance and interest to the average student as the official intercollegiate activities, for a vastly greater number of men students are active participants in intramural games than the relative few who represent the College in interscholastic competition.

Playing a total of more than 50 games despite the rain that often turned the four fields into slippery quagmires, the touch-football league functioned all through the Fall. After an undefeated season, the Trojans won the championship of the eight team circuit.

Fourteen clubs battled for the men's basketball championship, but once again the Trojans went unbeaten and took the title in a hotly contested finish.

A bowling league stimulated interest in this sport all winter, with both faculty and students participating actively.

Spring brought tennis and softball with both day and night leagues being organized. As in the other sports, much of the officiating was done by members of the Officials Club. The newly formed Sportsman's Club supervised competitive marksmanship matches throughout the Spring, drawing members from the entire student body.

The girls' participation in intramural sports increased this year, as more interest than ever was created among the "weaker" sex. Hockey season was topped off by the battle of the classes, and the annual Blue-Gold tourney. Close upon that came the time when basketball holds sway. Champions again were the "Motley Crew" who turned in perfect record number four.

Table tennis, bowling, volleyball, badminton, and softball rounded out the activities for the second semester. Some gals have participated in fencing and archery, sports which may well be included next year in an enlarged program of activities the new gym should make possible for all students.

"BILL" SMALTZ
Coach

The sun shone one day late in February 1950 and Coach "Bill" Smaltz found some new type leather-covered rubber ball and had the Indians ready to go. Said Bill, "The majors don't have anything on us, we are having Spring practice too."

With the loss of only two key men the Braves were raring to go on the warpath. "Squeeze" Long, "Donny" Howett, Dick Young, and George Kensinger were ready to handle the infield; "Mike" Dzvonar and Harry Frye gave us depth in the outfield and along with the Tribe's two winning pitchers, Ken Wenger and Jack Dickey, was Fred Phenicie, "the old pro".

"Squeeze" led the Indians in what started out as a very bad season but which ended better than seemed possible, with 7 wins and 6 losses. "Squeeze" batted—and held down the hot corner very satisfactorily even though he had a shoulder separation. He also led the team in stolen bases, hits, RBI's, and runs scored. These are just some of the reasons why he received the award as the outstanding athlete of the year at JC.

Other bright spots in the Indian's lineup were Don Howett's spectacular defensive play, Dick Young's grand slam home runs, Ken Wenger's strong arm and George Kensinger's stellar play behind the plate. As always there are two sides to the story and here we find Fred Phenicie's heart breaking losses, Jack Dickey's finger blister, and those easy pop flys that should have been squeezed.

Juniata had a lot of promising rookies last season of whom Dave LeFevre leads the list. Dave pitched beautiful ball and was a good man with a bat. Others who deserve equal praise are Joe Hulgus and Ray Tesi. Joe was the third man in our outfield and Ray was our clean-up hitter and first baseman.

The season opened with Juniata traveling to Lycoming at Williamsport, Pa. An easy victory for the Indians seemed to be the general attitude of everyone on College Hill before the game. However, the Indians dropped the contest by a

2-1 score. Fred Phenicie pitched a 2 hitter but due to one error the foe was able to push two runs across the plate. The game revealed weak hitting and when the season ended there was only one player batting over .300. Lycoming traveled to Juniata the next week and returned home with a second victory at the expense of the JC Indians. The braves then lost the next two games before breaking into the win column. Having lost four, they came back to take four in a row. As the season drew to a close, the Indians found themselves sporting 7 wins while having dropped 6. By maintaining a larger win column than a lost column Coach Smaltz considered the Indians to have had a relatively good season.

Of the sixteen teams scheduled for the 1950 season only thirteen were completed. Juniata was batting in its third inning of the game with Pitt when rain forced the game to be called. Also called due to the rainy weather were the away game with Lebanon Valley and the return clash with the St. Vincent nine.

Geneva; Elizabethtown, and St. Francis, twice; Dickinson, and Susquehanna, were the teams to fall before the hard fighting Indians. However, Lycoming, twice; Lebanon Valley, St. Vincent, Susquehanna and Bucknell were the foes who handed JC the six defeats which befell her.

From the list of teams played one can see that the Indians compete with teams of their own calibre. However, special recognition should be given to Bucknell who gave Juniata the worst trouncing by a score of 17-5. It was by far the best team the Indians played all season, one reason being their great pitcher Art Raynor. Should Juniata be able to get off to a good start each season, a tough team, such as Bucknell, stuck into the schedule would fall in order. "Bill" is still looking for another season like 1947 when his varsity nine won 10 and lost 4. Maybe 1951 will be the year?

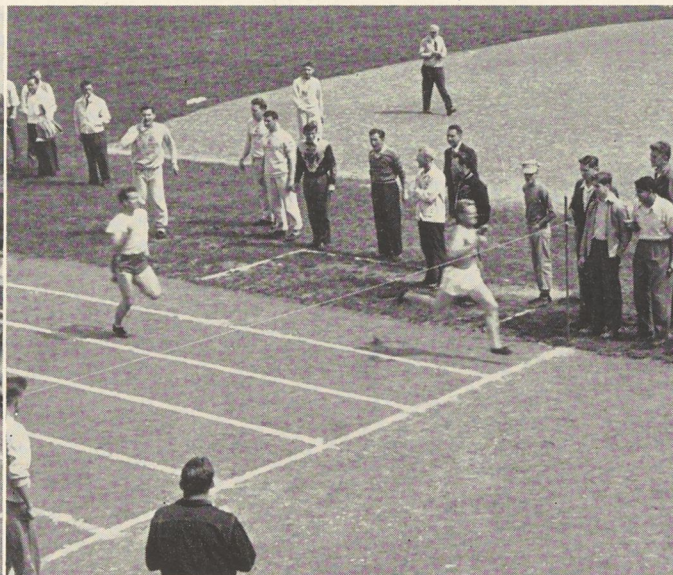

Call that safe at third

Around the Track

Joe Hackman strives mightily in the low hurdles.

Jack Rothenberger breaks the tape for JC in the 100 yard dash.

During the 1950 track season, Coach P. M. "Mike" Snider, the Indians' general director of athletics, again guided the track and field men on College Hill. Mike was graduated from Juniata in 1926 and returned in 1930 as assistant coach of basketball and football. Except for a few years in the U. S. Navy he has been our track coach ever since.

Because of the good showing of the Freshmen on the 1949 team Mike was hopefully looking forward to the 1950 season. Then the fateful day arrived, that is, April 17, 1950 when our gallant trackmen faced the strong Shippensburg team for its opener on our home field. JC went down to the worst defeat of all time, losing to Shippensburg by 24-102. As always there were individual standouts, but not enough second and third place men to acquire the necessary points. The team was handicapped by students transferring and injuries. Kirk MacDougal transferred to another schol; Bill Murray, Coy Hicks, and George Smith were unable to appear on the team for various reasons, and Jack Rothenberger was harassed by a leg injury throughout the year. Nevertheless, the new men on the team proved they had the "stuff" and we are looking for a good season in 1951.

The core of the 1950 team was composed of Don Brinton with 51 points for the year, Joe Beyer with 37 points (35 of those were from first places), Holmes Ulsh with 22 $\frac{2}{3}$ points, and Fred Stauffer, our fleet-footed quarter miler. Beyer and Brinton, as usual, continued to break records and provided keen competition for one another. Beyer won the most valuable player award for his continued outstanding performances in track.

Other members of the team who aided in winning points for JC were Joe Hackman, Bob Keim, Don Brocht, Harry Campbell, Earl Detrick, Tom Gates, Bob Morrissey, George Condos, Dick Fusco, Ron Fleck, John Weisel, John Richman, Jesse Frye, and Raymond Fowler.

Don Brinton takes second in the 880-yard run at Albright, the first of three events in which he won points.

Continuing their winning ways, the 1950 edition of the Juniata College golf team drove and putted to another successful season. Showing a total of nine victories and one tie, they also won the 11th annual Western Maryland Invitational Tournament and placed second in their own Juniata Invitational Meet held at Mt. Union American Legion Country Club.

With a nucleus of lettermen Ray Korody, Art Allen, Bob Rhodes, and Frank Stasenko, coached by Dr. Edgar Kiracofe and supported by newcomers Gordon Stroup and Dave Bayer, the Indian linksmen increased their intercollegiate record to 25 wins 1 defeat and 1 tie in three years of intercollegiate competition.

The month of April saw the "Kiracoemen" overwhelm Western Maryland 8-1, Dickinson twice, both by 9-0 shutouts, and highly tutored Westminster 7-2. The University of Pittsburgh held the Indians to a 4½-4½ draw.

Albright fell victim in May by a 5½-3½ score along with Bucknell 6-3, and Geneva 9-0. Avenging the defeat of the previous season the golfers soundly trounced Johns Hopkins 8 to 1 and followed this by a repeat victory over Bucknell 7-2.

Journeying south of the Mason Dixon Line the Indian teemen successfully defended their coveted Western Maryland Invitational title, bettering last year's tournament record by eight strokes. Korody, Allen, Rhodes, and Stroup represented the squad, touring the 36 hole course with a combined total of 586 strokes.

A new chapter was added to Juniata sports history this year with the initiation of the Juniata Invitational Golf Tournament. Invitations were sent to all Middle Atlantic Conference schools with a total of 13 schools responding to the call. With the co-operation of the Mt. Union American Legion Country Club and local Merchants' Association the tournament was very successful, with the University of Pennsylvania winning the team trophies and Lefty Dave Baldwin representing Lehigh copping the medalist honors. Juniata's representatives, tying with Lehigh, placed second, two strokes behind Penn.

In retrospect one can only applaud the achievements of the Juniata Golf team who continued to head the Indian athletes in intercollegiate competition.

Tennis

In the spring of 1950 the tennis courts were again put to use for intercollegiate competition. This all came about by the hard work of the tennis enthusiasts and the cooperation of the Student Senate, Athletic Committee and Prof. P. M. "Mike" Snider. When approval was given, Coach Snider went ahead and lined up five matches and organized the tennis team.

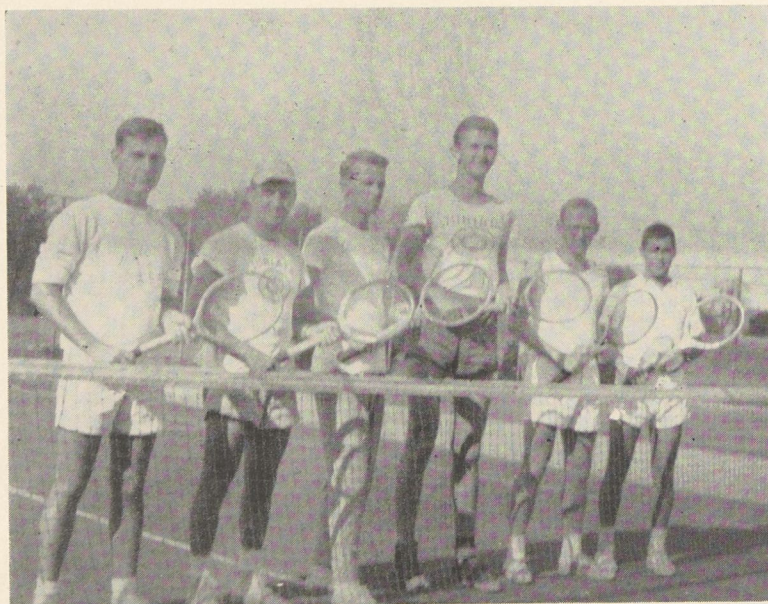

The positions on the team were determined by a "ladder" set up. This meant that each member of the team could challenge the man above him and thus move up the ladder. With the opening match the ladder was set up with the first four men being Steve Finckel, John Potteiger, Bob Frain and Ray Hollinger. These four men retained the top positions through the complete season.

At the end of the season there were only two members eligible for letters. Steve Finckel and Bob Frain both won their varsity "J" by winning at least two single matches, one doubles match and appearing in at least half of the matches.

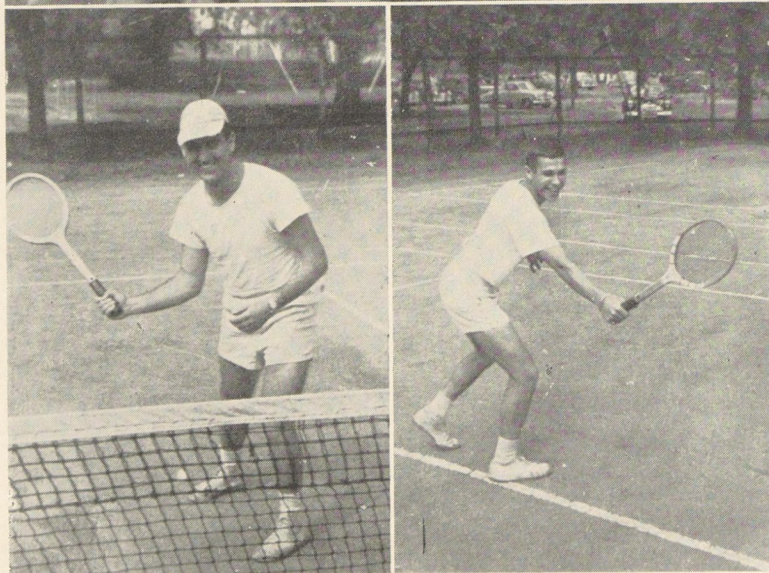

The complete tennis team was comprised of seven men;

Steve Finckel, John Potteiger, Bob Frain, Ray Hollinger, Harry Wood, George Sprague, and John Simes. This group of fellows worked out many difficulties under the guidance of Asst. Coach Bob Yoho. Although a student, but not eligible to play, Bob Yoho contributed a large amount of his time to the tennis team. This was greatly appreciated by both the team and Coach Snider.

As far as scores were concerned, the team had an unobtrusive season; nevertheless, much player and spectator interest was aroused in the new varsity sport. With several of the stronger players returning for the 1951 season, the tennis scene should then appear much brighter.

Standing at the net are: Harry Wood, D. Kennedy, J. Simes, G. Sprague, S. Finckel, and R. Hollinger.

Student Musical Productions

Love Is Like a Firefly

For the past several years, a student musical production has been presented each Spring in order to raise money for the aid of foreign students on Juniata's campus, a project to which the JWSF also contributes. With a student co-ordinator linking student talent and faculty direction, the musical comedies presented have brought forth fine response.

In March of 1950 Gilbert and Sullivan's, "The Pirates of Penzance", was performed. The large cast included Clyde Johnson, Frances Roddy, Gerald Hartzel, Charles Redenberger, Helen Wentzler, and Robert Frain while Corena Sollenger was student co-ordinator. This light opera, a blend of satire, comedy, music, and romance proved to be a highly successful program of entertainment.

"The Firefly," written by Rudolf Friml and Otto Harbach, was this year's presentation and was greeted with high acclaim and plaudits. Representing untold hours of concerted efforts on the part of students and faculty alike, the operetta was revealing of outstanding talent and workmanship.

The essential plot revolved about a little Italian street singer, Nina, very well portrayed by Joy Truxal, who is disguised as a boy and travels to Bermuda. There she helps disrupt, for a time, the romance of Jack, Geraldine, Thurston, and Mrs. Van Dare, played by Clyde Johnson, Helen Rosengren, Gerald Hartzel, and Helen Wentzler respectively. Additional comedy and romance were provided in the roles performed by Fred Stauffer, Clem Rosenberger, Joyce Grove, and Wesley Diemer.

To the above and to Professors Donald Johnson and Jack Brammer, Miss Lois Easley, and Vera Compton, student co-ordinator, the chorus, committees, and all others associated with the presentation goes hearty applause for providing an evening of excellent divertissement.

The plot thickens as the usually upset Jenkins greets his employer, Mrs. Van Dare, and her daughter, while Pietro and Suzette look on.

Mountain Day

Take large numbers of Juniata College students (plaid-jacketed and blue-jeaned), combine carefully with long hikes, touch football games, volley ball, horseshoe pitching, and badminton. Brew carefully in Greenwood Furnace under a warm sun, clear sky, and cool breezes for one day—Result: one long-remembered and fun-filled Mountain Day.

Early on the morning of Wednesday, October 11, the buses departed from College Hill for their mountain destination, carrying us away from books and school work to a wonderfully foot-loose and fancy-free day. The outing had originally been planned for Spruce Creek, which was next on the rotating list of four Mountain Day spots, but because of a detour near there Greenwood was substituted, and Spruce Creek became the destination for next year.

For every successful dish there must be a cook and for every successful Mountain Day we must have a committee. Lorena Hebrank and Bob Keim worked with Profs. Paul Yoder, Frances Mathias and P. M. Snider to make this Mountain Day a memorable experience.

We hike through the depths of the forest where the hand of man has never set foot.

The Profs show good form as they take the day off also.

Following the hike and games—food, seconds, too!

Homecoming

Lois Miller, Homecoming Queen of 1950, being crowned by 1949's Queen, Gladys Gehman

Lois Miller, junior from New York, reigned over the Homecoming festivities on College Hill this year. During the coronation which was planned and sponsored by The Juniatian, the entrance of the Queen was heralded by a review of royalty from horse and buggy days to the present. Last year's Queen, Gladys Gehman, was selected to crown her successor.

Juniata's campus hummed with the traditional Homecoming activities and displays that weekend. The freshmen girls tangled with the Sophs in a hockey game which proved that the frosh girls had what it took. However, dinks were seen on campus for the next week for the men of the class lost both the football game and the tug-of-war.

The J Club dance in the evening featured another attraction besides the Homecoming Queen and her Prince. Instead of depending on "canned" music, JC students had the experience of dancing to the music of their own dance band.

Our Hearts Were Young And Gay

The high point of the yearly program of dramatic activity on the college campus came about with the presentation of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay." It will be remembered, by those who enjoyed it from the Oller Hall auditorium as well as by those who participated, as a hilarious effort to reproduce the trials and tribulations of two teen-age American girls of the flapper era in their travels abroad. This performance also marked the first production with Miss Lois Esaley as faculty advisor.

In every respect "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" proved to be a highlight in the entertainment for this year.

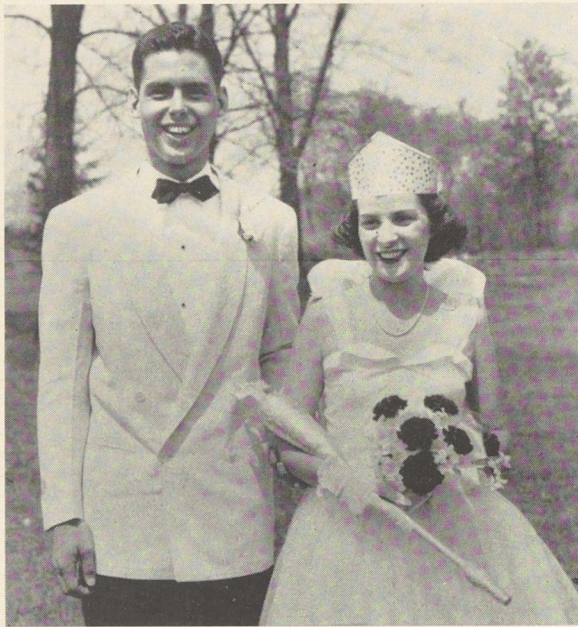

Don't try to comfort me. I'll never act.

Happy Bastille Day!

May Day

May Queen, Ilene Altemus and the Prince, Don Kagarise

A prelude to the May Day festivities was the May Day Breakfast, at which time the Queen, her prince consort and the attending court were revealed. Last Spring the college dining hall was transformed into a Country Garden, guarded by sword dancers and spirited by elves. The Prince, Don Kagarise, by handing Ilene Altemus a rose, announced to the onlookers that she was queen.

Two weeks later to the tune of English Country Gardens Juniata once more recognized the coming of Spring by presenting its annual May Day program. Heralded by trumpeters, the court entered Sherwood Forest, and began its stately procession to the royal throne. After the crowning of the Queen, various dances were presented in her honor . . . the Highland Fling, English Sleight Sword Dance, the Irish Lilt. Concluding with the traditional winding of the May Pole, Juniata once again gave festive welcome to Spring and all her beauty.

In The Village

Any inspection tour of the Juniata College campus always includes a stop-over at the foot of Taylor Highlands where a cream-colored 20-apartment unit known simply as "The Village" houses married students and their families.

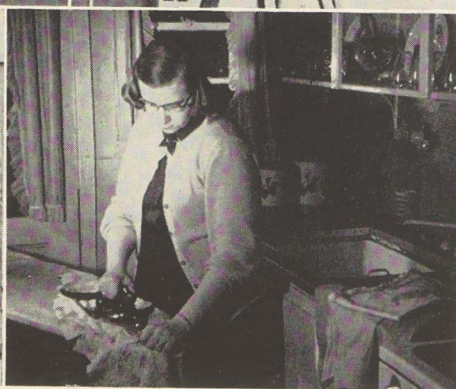

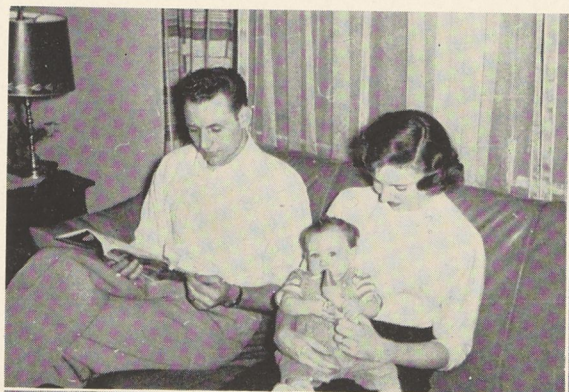

Erected in 1946 by the Government and taken over two years later by the College, the unit has solved the College's problem of housing for the large influx of married veterans. It also satisfies the students' need for a comfortable apartment convenient to the campus.

A part of the campus, yet a community in its own right, the Village elects a Mayor each year. Busy keeping house, minding the baby, and preparing class assignment, Villagers are well-disciplined residents and make their Mayor an officer in name only.

Few veterans of Village life would give up the days spent on the "Hill" and the pleasant associations with neighbors of like interests, all striving for "diploma day."

The time is almost here to fold up our class rosters, discard our stubby red pencils, put away our ruler and proportioning scale and unused pictures, and write 30 upon the copy of another edition of the Alfarata.

In closing, to the new editor and staff we leave our headaches and troubles, deadlines not met, and plans only partly realized. But also we offer our best wishes for success, and point to our mistakes as warnings of danger ahead and our accomplishments as stimuli for your achievements and progress.

The publication of a small college yearbook such as ours would not be possible without the co-operation and interest of the businesses closely associated with our college community—a cooperation beneficial to us both. We sincerely appreciate the part which they have played in bringing our book to reality. On behalf of the Alfarata staff and the students we wish to extend our hearty thanks to every advertiser.

THE DOORWAY

TO SECURITY

This doorway means much more than just the entrance to our offices. Through it pass both policyholder and agent, and for each security is offered that comes in no other way.

For more than 44 years our firm has offered service in a friendly and competent manner for your insurable property. For many, catastrophe has been a home that has burned, a car that has been damaged, the loss of a valuable ring or any one of the other multiple incidents that can affect us today. In each instance, service and satisfaction have been given promptly and have been the basis for the good will that we constantly strive to build.

For the agents, we have given the utmost in service and security to pass along to their clients. Our competitive rates and plans have given liberal opportunity to build a prominent and successful business. Many of the graduates from Juniata are associates in this organization.

This company believes in and offers sincere and friendly help to all.
